This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

The immense labor involved in a work like the present can hardly be appreciated by one who has not performed a similar task. When all is done as well as it may be, glaring imperfections remain, which could only be eradicated by doing the same work, from beginning to end—when yet new imperfections would probably be found. A full account of the problems in the present Catalogue is given in Part III of the Introduction, and an explanation of the terms employed and the rules for entry appear in Part IV. It only remains to express my cordial, heartfelt thanks to those who have helped me.

This Catalogue is a product of the Native Sons' Fellowships in History at the University of California. As holder of one of these fellowships, for two years, I was enabled to prepare these volumes and other works, and in a thousand ways to enjoy and profit by a long residence in Spain. The many advantages I have derived are a measure of my gratitude to the Native Sons of the Golden West who made their attainment possible. In order that the enlightened work of this Californian order may be permanently recorded, a section of the Introduction has been devoted to an account of the fellowships they founded.

I welcome the chance once again to make public acknowledgment of the debt I owe Professor H. Morse Stephens, my chief at the University of California, for the opportunities afforded me in my chosen career. As affecting this work, I thank him especially for his unfailing support during my entire stay in Spain. For advice and help in the formal preparation of these volumes, special thanks are due to Professor Herbert E. Bolton, whose precise knowledge of the problems to be encountered and whose vast information concerning the subject matter of the Catalogue have enabled him to suggest, correct, and solve. The important achievements of both of these men in connection with the Native Sons' Fellowships have been recorded elsewhere in this volume.

To many others, too, I wish to express my thanks—to the courteous archivists of the Archivo General de Indias, headed by the simpática and learned Señor Don Pedro Torres Lanzas—to my faithful clerks

San Leandro and Medina—to my former pupil, Mr. Reginald S. Castleman, now in Seville, who has reopened many of the legajos cited here, to assist in correcting various items of the Catalogue—and to Dr. Charles Wilson Hackett and Professor Herbert I. Priestley, who have read and criticized certain parts of the Catalogue. To all of these men I am deeply and eternally grateful.

INTRODUCTION

I. The Archivo General de Indias

A. The wealth of the great archive at Seville.—In the words of a Spanish writer, "The history of [Spanish] America, so far as the documents are concerned, is preserved almost completely in Spain. The successive amputations of her American dominions which the mother country suffered have gone on increasing the wealth in documents, for, as her rule has come to an end, she has transported a great part of their archives . . . The most essential parts of these documents are contained in the Archivo [General] de Indias of Seville." [1]

While some may take exception to the above statement, on the ground that it is too sweeping, it is beyond question that the great Sevillian archive is practically inexhaustible in its wealth of materials on almost every conceivable subject in Spanish colonial administration and is the most valuable single archive on that field in existence. This is so in increasing measure, for laws have been passed and are gradually being executed for the transfer of materials relating to Spain's former colonies from their present repositories in Simancas and Madrid to the archive at Seville. It is true that vast quantities of rich materials have been found in the archives of Spanish American countries,[2] and that they often contain local details of which no account was sent to Spain, but a single great repository, dealing with all of the former colonies, has a decided advantage as against the numerous, scattered archives of the Americas. Many colonial archives have indeed but scant remains of the wealth they once possessed, as a result of the removal of papers to Spain,[3] or due to the yet greater disintegrating forces of foreign war, revolution, and lack of care.[4]

[4] For example, in the case of Peru.

Even in the case of those American countries whose archives retain an unusual degree of completeness,[5] the meagre local materials will usually be present in Spain, as well as in the land of origination, owing to the incessant and systematic accumulation of minute detail, for action by the authorities in Spain.[6]

The value of the materials in Seville, as compared with those of other archives, may be illustrated by tracing the documentation of a given case. It may be supposed that Lacy, the Spanish minister to Russia, reports to Grimaldi, the Spanish minister of state, that the Russians are preparing to make conquests in the Californias. Grimaldi, in turn, informs Arriaga, the ministro general de Indias, and the latter asks the viceroy, Bucarely, to strengthen the defences of Alta California. Bucarely orders Governor Rivera of Alta California to report on the state of the presidios in his province. In due time, Rivera writes to the various presidial commanders, and receives their replies, after which he communicates the result to Bucarely. Bucarely writes to Arriaga, who asks Gálvez, as one familiar with Alta California affairs, his opinion about the Rivera report. Gálvez replies, and Arriaga then sends the whole file to the Council of the Indies, with a request for its action. Finally, the Council informs Arriaga of what it has done. In such a case, a great many other documents would in fact be included in the expediente, but the above are sufficient for purposes of illustration. The following would be the usual documentary result in the archives of Salinas (the county seat of Monterey County, California), Mexico City, and Seville.[7]

In some of the above cases the document might be an uncertified copy of an original or certified copy, thus operating more particularly against the technical value of the file at Seville, but it will be seen, from an investigation of the Catalogue, that such instances are rare.[8] In matters of purely local character or of minor importance, documents like those from 4 to 7 may never have been sent to Spain, although they may appear at Salinas and Mexico, while there is undoubtedly a great body of material, like items 5 and 6, that would exist only in a provincial archive. Attention should also be called to the fact that, for such documents as exist in all three archives, the best technical file is that of the province, the next best that of the viceroyalty, and next after that the file in Spain.[9] On the other hand, the documents

[9] Much material of the Spanish period relating to regions now within the United States is still to be found in various local archives, as may be seen from the following account of the local archives of Texas, New Mexico, and California.

One of the most valuable archives of the northern Spanish frontier is that which accumulated in the old Spanish province of Texas. In the early years of its history the district was a part of Coahuila. For half a century, from 1722 to 1772, the capital was at Los Adaes (now Robeline) in the present state of Louisiana. Thenceforward, to the end of the Spanish period, the seat of government was at San Antonio de Bexar. In the course of time, the provincial records became somewhat scattered. The bulk of them, however, found their way into the County Courthouse of Bexar County (at San Antonio), where they remained until, some eighteen years ago, they were transferred to the University of Texas, at which place they have formed the basis for much of the notable historical work done at that university. Fragments of the archives are at the State Historical Library, Austin, where they are known as the Nacogdoches Archives. Still other fragments were found in the Lamar Papers, which were purchased by the state of Texas, a few years ago. These, too, are now at the State Library. The provincial records at the University of Texas are well known as the Bexar Archives. They comprise about 300,000 pages of original documents, consisting mainly of the correspondence of military and civil officials.

When the United States government acquired New Mexico in 1848, fairly complete records were found in the provincial archives at Santa Fe for the period since 1692. Few documents were of prior date to the latter year, due to the fact that in the revolt of 1680 all the records, covering the period from 1598, were burned, and it was not until 1692 that the Spaniards were able to return to New Mexico. In 1903, the Secretary of the Interior, acting for the United States government, took charge of the Spanish archives of the territory of New Mexico. During the preceding fifty-five years of American occupation, however, the archives had not been properly cared for, and in 1870 an American governor was even guilty of the vandal act of selling documents to the merchants of Santa Fe for wrapping paper. After the Secretary of the Interior assumed control in 1903, the papers still remaining at Santa Fe were, with the exception of a few that were retained in the Surveyor-General's office in that city, removed to the Manuscripts Division of the Library of Congress. There they have been arranged in chronological order, the sheets have been cleaned, and a catalogue in English has been made of them. For more detailed at Seville have a number of advantages. Documents like those of item 1 are often at Seville in the original, as well as in copies therefrom, and eventually that should be the general rule, when all Spanish colonial materials shall be stored at Seville, as contemplated by law. Furthermore, documents like those of items 9 to 12, always of the highest technical rank, are to be found only in Spain. They may be described generally as intra-departmental (within the Indies department itself), inter-departmental (among the various governmental agencies of Spain in Europe), and private (whether as the result of official requests for an opinion or arising from petitions of individuals) correspondence in Europe (usually in Spain) of which official cognizance was taken by the department of the Indies. Finally, the whole expediente in Spain is the file upon which the highest official action was based.

Whatever argument there may be as to the comparative value of the documents in Seville and elsewhere as to kind, there can be none as respects their number, in which particular the Archivo General de Indias is far superior to any other in the same field. In 1913 there were nearly 40,000 legajos in the archives.[10] When the transfers from accounts, see Vaughan, J. H., A preliminary report on the archives of New Mexico, in American Historical Association, Annual report for 1908, pp. 465-494; Twitchell, Spanish archives of New Mexico, 2 vols. (Cedar Rapids, Ia., 1914), Prefatory note.

Unfortunately, the Spanish provincial archives of Alta California have not been kept intact, and probably the greater part of them has been destroyed. After the conquest of California by the United States, the archives were placed in charge of the United States Surveyor-General for California. Some of the papers were later taken elsewhere, but the greater part were still in possession of that official at the time of the San Francisco fire of 1906. In over three hundred volumes of Spanish records, scarcely more than a score escaped the conflagration. Fortunately, however, sixteen volumes of original documents, dating from 1781 to 1850, had been transferred, in 1858, to the Monterey County archive, in the recorder's office at Salinas, and there they still remain. Five of the volumes relate to criminal matters; the others are miscellaneous, containing official correspondence, private letters, public addresses, and petty court papers. They comprise, without doubt, the most valuable source material for the Spanish and Mexican periods of California history to be found in any of the archives of California. Other records of a more local nature exist in the archives of cities which were the former pueblos of Spanish California, as at Los Angeles, San Jose, and Santa Cruz (Branciforte), and still others at many of the missions, especially at Santa Barbara, where an attempt has been made to collect the files of all the missions.

For the material of the preceding paragraphs, the writer is indebted to Professor Herbert E. Bolton, Dr. Charles W. Hackett, and Mr. Owen C. Coy, secretary of the California Historical Survey Commission.

[10] Roscoe R. Hill (in his Descriptive catalogue of the documents relating to the history of the United States in the Papeles procedentes de Cuba deposited in the Archivo General other Spanish archives have been completed, there should be a total of 80,000 legajos.[11] While a number of legajos contain only several hundred pages of manuscript material, and still others have as many as six thousand, the usual size of a legajo is about two thousand pages. The number of documents will vary greatly, from a single huge testimonio or several bound volumes to as many as two thousand documents. Counting testimonios as one item, it is probable that there may be an average of four hundred documents to a legajo.[12] If the separate documents of testimonios are included, the number may easily reach double that figure. On this basis, the ultimate wealth of the Archivo General de Indias is from 32,000,000 to 64,000,000 documents, aggregating 160,000,000 pages of manuscript! The vastness of these numbers and the possibilities that await the American investigator can best be appreciated, when one considers that an estimate made in 1907 by a competent scholar, with the financial backing of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, revealed only 5332 copies in the United States of documents from the archives of Spain—not merely from the Archivo General de Indias[13]—although many from the archive at Seville have since been added to American libraries.[14] de Indias at Seville, Washington, 1916, p. vii) says "about 35,000," and in a list on page ix gives a more nearly exact estimate of 35,731 legajos. William R. Shepherd (in his Guide to the materials for the history of the United States in Spanish archives, Washington, 1907, p. 55), says "some 40,000 legajos," and those are the figures given by Señor Torres Lanzas, head of the archive, to the writer. The two estimates may be reconciled by the fact that there are some groups of papers in which the legajos are so large as to be unwieldy, and it has long been planned to reduce them to a more convenient size. In 1913, after Mr. Hill's departure from Seville, this work began on the 1194 bundles of the Escribanía de Cámara del Consejo de Indias papers, which are expected to yield about 3000 legajos of the usual size.

[11] This is the estimate of Señor Torres Lanzas.

[12] Hill, Descriptive catalogue, p. xxix, estimates that there are an average of five hundred documents in the legajos forming the basis of his work. In the legajos investigated for the present Catalogue, it is doubtful if the average is over three hundred, owing to the great number of testimonios, and it may be less.

[13] Robertson, James A., List of documents in Spanish archives relating to the history of the United States which have been printed or of which transcripts are preserved in American libraries. Of the 5332 items, 1075 concern printed documents, but the transcript entries often include more than a single document.

[14] Through the efforts of N. S. G. W. Fellows and of Dr. William E. Dunn of the University of Texas, thousands of documents have been procured for the Bancroft Library of the University of California, the Library of the University of Texas, the Newberry Library of Chicago, and the Library of Congress. Thus, students in the Spanish American field have an opportunity to carry on extensive work in any one of four widely separated cities of this country.

B. The archive building.—The history of the Casa Lonja, as the archive building is called, has been told by most of the writers who have dealt with the material it contains.[15] In brief, it may be stated that a law was passed, on October 30, 1572, calling for the erection of the building for the use of the Casa de Contratación. The work was in charge of the elder Herrera (Juan de Herrera), most famous Spanish architect of all time, the builder of the Escorial and other notable edifices in Spain, and the building is one of the most pleasing examples of his style. On August 14, 1598, the work was completed. For over a hundred years, the Lonja was the seat of the busy Casa de Contratación, but in the eighteenth century, with the removal of that institution to Cádiz, it became untenanted. In 1778, the idea of an archive of the Indies was suggested to the king by Juan Bautista Muñoz, celebrated historian and even more celebrated archivist. The project was received with favor, and the Casa Lonja was proposed by José de Gálvez, at that time ministro general de Indias, as the archive building. In 1785, with the arrival of a number of legajos from Simancas, the Lonja was fairly embarked on its new career. From that time forth, other consignments of papers were made to the archive,[16] until at length the upper floor of the building, the only space thus far allotted, could not conveniently house more of the legajos. Laws were passed for the delivery of the lower floor for archive purposes as well, and in 1913 the laws were executed. With this addition, it is believed that there will be enough space, though with little to spare, for the 80,000 legajos which will one day be the completed store of the Archivo General de Indias.

There are practically no formalities attending admission to the archive for purposes of investigation,[17] and, once there, the investigator is allowed wide latitude for the pursuit of his studies. While waiting for a legajo, he has an opportunity to consult the valuable library of over a thousand volumes, which the Archivo General de Indias has accumulated concerning Spanish America. While the archive has no funds for the purchase of books, the library is constantly growing through gifts; incidentally, it is a rule of courtesy that students who use the materials of the archive shall donate copies of their printed works based thereon. The investigator who is unable to go to Seville for his documents is free to arrange for copying through the N. S. G. W. Fellows, when they are present, or he may apply directly to the chiefs of the archive.

[15] See especially the already cited works of Shepherd and Torres Lanzas.

[16] Hill, Descriptive catalogue, p. ix, gives a table showing the different larger groups of papers, their inclusive dates, the number of legajos in each, the origin of the papers, and the dates when they came to the Casa Lonja.

[17] On this point, see Shepherd, Guide, p. 59, and Hill, Descriptive catalogue, pp. ix–xi.

C. The arrangement of the papers.—In the formation of the legajos, of whatever set, the year 1760 is a kind of twilight zone between the disorder of the older papers and the excellent arrangement of those of later date; the disorder continues through that year in some legajos, while in others that is the date where good order begins. Before 1760, expediente groupings are rarely maintained, and are often completely lost, through the disappearance of documents, or through their having been filed in separate legajos. The arrangement of the post-1760 legajos is admirable. The general rule is for a subgrouping by individual years, within which the particular year's expedientes appear. The expedientes are conveniently arranged, so that the relationships of the documents are manifest from the very make-up of the file. Occasionally, in legajos that have been used by investigators, but especially in those from which copies have been made, an ante-1760 chaos has made its appearance. Whether the fault be that of an investigator or that of an archive clerk, it cannot be too greatly regretted, and it is to be hoped that the evil practice may be checked or done away with.

The papers are divided into twelve (or, if those styled Indiferente General are considered separately from the Audiencia group, thirteen) larger sets, ranging in numbers from the 105 legajos of the Estado group, to the 18,860 of the Simancas papers (including both the Audiencia and Indiferente General sections, of which the former contains over 15,000). Some attempts at cataloguing the materials have been made, but while the inventarios and índices of certain sets, for example the Patronato Real[18] and Estado groups, have been

[18] The most famous of all the sets of materials at the archive is that of the Patronato Real. The title of these papers would lead one to expect them to deal with the royal patronage with regard to the church, but the name has no relation to the subject matter; they are so called, because they are stored in a room which was formerly the office of that branch of royal administration. They represent the selections of Juan Bautista Muñoz of the materials which he considered the most valuable of the archive. As such, they have been used by investigators more than many other equally valuable sets, and they constitute the principal source for the much cited Colección de documentos inéditos, relativos al descubrimiento, conquista y organización de las antiguas posesiones españolas de América y Oceanía, 42 vols. Madrid, 1864–1884. Cf. Chapman, The founding of Spanish California, p. 438. The documents of the Patronato Real are particularly rich in materials for the era commendably well done, those of others present very meagre guides to the materials referred to. This is particularly true of what is perhaps the richest set of all for general purposes, as well as the greatest in number of legajos, the above-mentioned Simancas papers, to which three small inventarios are devoted. In the case of this set, a one or two line description, with inclusive dates, is given for the various groups of legajos, a single item embracing from one to as many as twenty-five legajos—obviously not a very detailed clue to the contents.

The names of the larger sections will occasionally convey some idea as to the nature of the materials, but the basis of appellation is, not subject-matter, but the office whence the papers came to the archive. Thus, the Simancas papers came from the archive at Simancas. The principal subgroup is called the Audiencia papers, not because it deals with the activities of audiencias, but because the various audiencia jurisdictions were taken as convenient geographical divisions. Similarly, the other subgroup of the Simancas papers is called Indiferente General, because the documents were not easily referable to any single audiencia jurisdiction.[19] The legajos are located by estante (stack), cajón (compartment, or shelf), and legajo (bundle) numbers, and the three together (e. g., 104–3–2) are habitually termed the legajo number. The title of an individual legajo and its inclusive dates will usually give a general indication of subject-matter and the range, in time. of the documents, but neither is a safe clue in all cases, as will be seen by reference to the section of this Catalogue dealing with legajo descriptions.[20] of the conquistadores; they contain little or nothing for the eighteenth century. There is still much of value in this set that has not been used, e. g., the six hundred page manuscript account of the Coronado expedition by Baltasar de Obregón, which was virtually unknown until found by the writer and copied for the Newberry Library of Chicago; but, as a general rule, other sets will now yield far more to the investigator in search of new materials. The inventarios and índices of the Patronato Real are the type which has been followed with more or less success in the cataloguing of other sets. The inventarios of this set (of which there are two) list the materials, sometimes by expedientes, and at others document by document. The índices (of which also there are two) provide an alphabetical index, usually by names of persons, but in some cases by names of places and institutions as well, to the inventarios. Where possible, the alphabetical index is applied within geographical units.

[19] This section has also served as a category for materials which came to the archive, not necessarily from Simancas, after the inventarios of other groups had been made up. It is therefore a growing set. (Shepherd, Guide, p. 67.)

[20] It is a temptation to write a general account of the various larger groups of papers, for which the writer has notes available, but it is doubtful if much that is useful could be added to the concise statements appearing in Shepherd's Guide.

D. Works dealing with the archive.—A bibliography of works treating of the Archivo General de Indias is provided in Hill, Descriptive catalogue,[21] p. vii. The following items may be added to Mr. Hill's list:

El Archivo de Indias y la Sociedad de publicaciones históricas. Madrid. [1912]. This is an illustrated thirty-one page pamphlet in two parts. The first part, in fifteen pages, is the work of Dr. Pío Zabala y Lera, referring to the publications, past and prospective, of the Sociedad de Publicaciones Históricas. The second part, written anonymously by Señor Don Pedro Torres Lanzas, chief of the archive, concerns the Archivo General de Indias. It ranks with Shepherd's Guide[22] as the most useful description yet published of the general contents of the archive.

Larrabure y Unanue, Eugenio, Les archives des Indes et la Bibliothèque Colombine de Séville. [Paris. 1914]. This is a profusely illustrated eighty-eight page pamphlet, of which fifty pages are devoted to the Archivo General de Indias. Practically the entire space deals with the exposition of documents at that archive in 1913, in celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of Balboa's discovery of the Pacific Ocean.

There is an article in Archives des missions scientifiques et littéraires (2), II, 367, not available to the present writer, cited in Shepherd, Guide, pp. 59, 96.

More popular in character, but often containing material of value, are the various reports of the N. S. G. W. Fellows, published, from time to time, in the Grizzly bear magazine of Los Angeles, and articles of like character by Dr. William E. Dunn of the University of Texas in newspapers and magazines of Texas, e. g., Hunting old documents in Spain, in The alcalde (Austin, Texas), III, pp. 345–354, Feb., 1915. The most complete and most available description of the archive, for American scholars, especially as regards the inventarios and índices of the different sets of papers, is Shepherd's Guide, supplemented as regards arrangements and archive rules since the publication of Shepherd's work by Hill's Descriptive catalogue. Both of these works, as well as those of Bolton, Pérez, and Robertson, cited in notes 2 and 13, are among the publications of the Department of Historical Research of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

II. The Native Sons' Fellowships

A. The Native Sons of the Golden West.—The Native Sons of the Golden West have the unique distinction of being perhaps the only fraternal society in the United States which devotes its efforts and its funds to the promotion of state history. In so doing, they are taking the logical course springing out of the circumstances of their origin and membership. The idea for the founding of the order originated with General A. M. Winn, who, as grand marshal of a Fourth of July parade at San Francisco in 1875, had arranged for a division of marchers made up entirely of young men " born under the American flag " in California. Such a group was formed, and it marched in the parade, held that year on Monday, July 5. The following Sunday, July 11, a number of the participants and others within the terms of General Winn's call held a meeting, and at Winn's suggestion formed a society, choosing the name which still endures. In March, 1876, the society was incorporated, at which time it had a membership of 113. Membership was limited to men (over eighteen) born since July 7, 1846, the date when Commodore Sloat took formal possession for the United States at Monterey.[23] In 1885, the rules were extended to include native Californians born before the raising of the American flag, as well as those born afterward.

The founders seem originally to have contemplated an extension of the order into the various states of " the Golden West," but it is perhaps fortunate for the cause of history that the order eventually became purely Californian in its aims. It has increased in influence, until today there are 172 chapters, or " parlors," with a membership (in 1916) of 20,722. Closely affiliated with it is the order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, a similar organization for California women, with a total of 143 parlors.

The Native Sons have long been engaged in work tending to the perpetuation of the records of California's past. To them are due the marking of many historic spots and the repair and preservation of the far-famed California missions. Not the least important of their measures was the founding of the Native Sons' Fellowships in History at the University of California.[24]

[23] General Winn and G. W. Anthony were admitted as honorary members; neither was a native of the state.

[24] Section A is based on Jung, Fred H., What, who, and how, the Native Sons, in Grizzly bear magazine, XX, no. 6, p. 25, April, 1917. Mr. Jung is Grand Secretary of the order.

B. The founding of the fellowships.—At the "Grand Parlor," or general, meeting of the Native Sons at Marysville in April, 1909, a resolution was adopted for the appointment of a committee of five to investigate and report, at the next session of the Grand Parlor, as to the feasibility of establishing a chair in California history at the state university. The committee conferred with Professor H. Morse Stephens, head of the history department at the University of California, who advised them that it would first be necessary to train a man for the position, since there was no one properly qualified for it. Professor Stephens suggested the founding of two annual fellowships of $1500 each, to enable the holders to study California history at its sources in Spain and elsewhere. This idea was accepted by the committee, and was recommended to the order at the next meeting of the Grand Parlor, held in June, 1910, at Lake Tahoe. The resolution was referred to the finance committee, which reported in favor of a gift of $1500 to the University of California for a Native Sons' Fellowship for the following year. In this form, the resolution was adopted, and a committee of five was appointed to coöperate with the authorities of the university in carrying out the details of the grant. In June, 1911, at the Grand Parlor meeting, held at Santa Cruz, the sum of $3000 was voted for two fellowships. Since that time, this amount has been appropriated for this purpose annually.[25]

C. Brief history of the fellowships.—While the Native Sons were evolving toward the idea of the fellowships, steps were being taken at the University of California which had much to do with the later success which the Fellows may fairly be said to have achieved. During his sabbatical year of 1909–1910, Professor Stephens spent several months in Spain, with the object of finding out whether an investigation of the archives of that country would yield much in the way of materials for California history. Without attempting an intensive investigation, he found enough to warrant a belief that a number of years could be spent there profitably, especially at the Archivo General de Indias, by students interested in the history of the Pacific coast. With this information and with many valuable copies, he returned to [25] This paragraph is based upon a letter to the present writer by Mr. D. Q. Troy of Oakland, historiographer of the N. S. G. W. order. The letter is dated May 23, 1917; it contains much more than the brief statement given here, for which reason it has been turned over to the Bancroft Library. A noteworthy source for additional information is the Grizzly bear magazine, organ of the N. S. G. W. and the N. S. D. W., where detailed accounts of Grand Parlor meetings are to be found.

Berkeley, where he proceeded to take a fresh step in the upbuilding of a school of Pacific coast history. Since he himself was not a specialist in that field, it was necessary to find somebody who could train students for the problems that would confront them in making use of the materials in Spain. The logic of events pointed to Professor Herbert E. Bolton, then at Leland Stanford University, as the ideal man for the place. For many years, Professor Bolton had been the acknowledged master in the field embracing the former Spanish frontier, in regions now within the United States. Furthermore, he had made extended investigations of the archives of Mexico, the results of which were, shortly afterward, published in his well-known Guide, in the Carnegie Institution series. In 1911, Professor Stephens was successful in his effort to induce this scholar to accept a position at the University of California, where he was to have principal charge of the graduate work in the department of history. In the meantime, however, the first Native Sons' Fellow had been appointed.

To Mr. Lawrence Palmer Briggs, Native Sons' Fellow for 1911–1912, all subsequent Fellows, and the writer more than all, owe a debt of gratitude. His was in a measure a step in the dark. Going to Spain without the benefit of Professor Bolton's training, and without an adequate idea of the problems awaiting him, he was placed in a more difficult position than any subsequent Fellow has been. It is gratifying to know that his work has had a positive result, even though he himself was not to bring it to fruition, for the publication of Dr. Priestley's volume on José de Gálvez[26] depended in great degree on the investigations of Mr. Briggs. His experiences in Spain, however, were of more particular value to the later Fellows, and especially to the writer, who was the next to go to Spain.[27]

The work of the writer as Native Sons' Fellow is discussed in detail in Section III. On the positive side, his Founding of Spanish California and this Catalogue, besides a number of articles, are the results of his two-year term, from 1912 to 1914. Upon his return in 1914, he was appointed to a position in the history department of the University of California, and became the first instructor in the history of California at that university. Thus, one of the objects of the Native Sons was achieved.

The other fellowship for 1912–1913, the first year in which two were available, was divided between Mr. Joseph J. Hill and Mr. Tracy B. Kittredge, both of whom, as Resident Fellows, rendered service in the Bancroft Library. Mr. Hill carried on an investigation concerning the history of the Mormons in California.[28]

For the year 1913–1914, Mr. William Lytle Schurz was appointed, serving in Spain at the same time with the writer, after which Mr. Schurz was named for a second term, ending in 1915. His volume on the Manila galleon is expected to be one of the next publications of the University of California.[29]

The second Fellow for the year 1914–1915 was Mr. Gordon C. Davidson. Instead of sending him to Spain, a departure from the usual practice was made when Mr. Davidson was instructed for work in England. He was on board the Empress of Ireland when that vessel went down at the mouth of the St. Lawrence River, losing all the notes with regard to his work that he had thus far prepared. Nevertheless, his year was spent to good advantage, and his History of the North West Company is already listed for publication at the University of California.[30]

Dr. Charles H. Cunningham and Mr. Karl C. Leebrick were appointed in 1915. The latter remained one year. A volume by him, The English expedition to Manila in 1762, is soon to be published. He also gathered materials for a catalogue, similar to the present work, covering the Duplicados de comandantes generales in the Audiencia de Guadalajara group of the Simancas papers.[31]

Dr. Cunningham remained two years in Spain, from 1915 to 1917. He has a volume on the Audiencia de Filipinas on the calendar for publication at the University of California, and has also been carrying on other institutional studies at Seville bearing upon Spanish American history.

The second fellowship for 1916–1917 was awarded to Mr. Tracy B. Kittredge, who almost immediately resigned. His place was taken by Mr. George Leslie Albright. No finer young man or more [28] Mr. Hill is now teaching in Utah. Mr. Kittredge, after a period of service with the Belgian Relief Committee, is in England at the time of going to press.

[29] Dr. Schurz is now Assistant Professor of Latin American History at the University of Michigan, where he is listed for courses in Latin American history and the history of the Pacific area—offshoots of his service as Native Sons' Fellow.

[30] Dr. Davidson is now a lieutenant in the Nineteenth Reserve Battalion of Canadian Infantry, on service in France.

promising scholar ever went forth from the University of California than Mr. Albright. On December 15, 1916, he died at Seville, a victim of typhoid fever. He had continued work at the archive up to the day he was obliged to go to the bed, and, to the last, seemed chiefly concerned over the check in the progress of his work. His volume on the Spanish frontier of New Spain and his proposed catalogue of the viceroys' correspondence will never appear over his name, but a master's thesis written by him, entitled Plans and official explorations for Pacific railroads, has been found to be so meritorious, that it will be published at the University of California.[32]

Owing to the entrance of the United States into the war against Germany, it has become impossible to send Fellows to Europe, for the present. Four Resident Fellows have therefore been appointed for 1917–1918. They are Dr. Charles Wilson Hackett, Mr. John Lloyd Mecham, Mr. Charles S. Mitrani, and Mr. J. Fred Rippy. Dr. Hackett is already the author of a number of historical articles, and has a volume entitled The uprising of the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico in 1680 on the calendar for publication at the University of California.

It will be noticed that the Fellows have each prepared one or more volumes, all of them having a demonstrable bearing upon California history, as part of their work in connection with the fellowships. They have also procured copies of documents for the use of a great body of students, not only for the Bancroft Library, but for other libraries and for a number of American scholars as well; they have represented the University of California on formal occasions in foreign lands; and, finally, they have prepared themselves for university positions, whereby they may spread the gospel of " the Golden West " throughout the country.*

[32] At the Grand Parlor meeting of the Native Sons, held at Redding, in April, 1917, a memorial estante, or legajo stack, to Mr. Albright was voted. It will be placed in the Archivo General de Indias at Seville.

* Mr. Mecham and Mr. Mitrani resigned their fellowships in June, 1917, and enlisted in the ambulance service of the United States army. Their places were taken by Mr. Joseph J. Hill, a former Fellow, and by Mr. Arthur S. Aiton. In the fall of 1917 Dr. Cunningham became an Instructor at the University of Texas, giving courses in Hispanic American history. Dr. Hackett has been appointed Professor and head of the Department of History in the University of New Mexico, beginning work there in the fall of 1918. Lieut. Davidson is reported to have been decorated by the British government for gallantry in action against the Germans. He was severely wounded during 1917, but word has come that he has reported again for duty.

III. The Work Planned and Accomplished

The work done by Professor H. Morse Stephens in Spain, in 1909–1910, besides providing the Bancroft Library with a number of valuable copies, had demonstrated that the Archivo General de Indias was rich in materials for Pacific coast history. The work of Mr. Briggs, the first Native Sons' Fellow, was of great service to the writer in a different way. Mr. Briggs was instructed to do work on his thesis and make copies for the Bancroft Library. Although it could not have been foreseen at the time, these instructions made it impossible for Mr. Briggs to accomplish as much, even with his own thesis, as he might have done. With a preliminary training which caused him to view each new important document that had never been used before as a "find," it was only natural that he should stop to take careful notes on as many such documents as he should come upon. The result was unfortunate, in that there was more material than could have been utilized in many years—yet all, or nearly all, had to be taken into account, if the proper perspective were to be gained and the best selection of documents made. Curiously enough, the unexpected wealth of the archive was the most serious factor he had to contend against.

It was at the writer's own suggestion, that a different program was planned for his term as Native Sons' Fellow. He proposed that he abandon work on his thesis until such time as he might gain a wide acquaintance with the available materials at the great archive in Seville. In the meantime, it was suggested that he make lists, without taking notes, of all pertinent documents that he might find, not only on his own subject, but also on California history in general. For this work he had in a measure been prepared by cataloguing certain portions of the manuscript material in the Bancroft Library. This plan was accepted, and instructions were given in accordance therewith.[33] He was to proceed, legajo by legajo, choosing legajos on the basis of their possibilities as regards material for California history, and list California material only.

Upon arrival in Spain the writer began to put the above plan into operation. Problems that had not been foreseen very soon began to present themselves. The methods of entry which he employed at the start were found to be inadequate, resulting in some inaccuracies in the technical descriptions of the earlier entered documents.[34] Another question to solve was whether the separate documents of a testimonio should be entered or not. It very soon became clear, however, that such a practice would entail an expenditure of time out of all proportion to the value of the entry. He, therefore, decided to make but a single entry of testimonios. Similarly, decrees and reports or other notations on the same paper with another document, to which these later documents referred, were not given separate entry. On the other hand, the original practice of entering the subordinate documents of an expediente, where the file was composed of separate documents that were tied or folded together, was retained, and results, the writer believes, have justified their retention. These and other problems led eventually to the preparation of the plan on methods of entry which forms the concluding section of this introduction.

A more serious problem arose in connection with the material itself. It had all along been understood that the materials for California history would include documents relating to regions in the direct line of approach to California, especially Baja California and Sonora, but it was not supposed that the affairs of the easterly provinces of the northern frontier, from Nueva Vizcaya to Texas, would have any noteworthy bearing upon the history of the Pacific coast. The fallaciousness of this view became almost at once apparent, and documents dealing with the easterly provinces that clearly bore a relationship to affairs in the west were entered; furthermore, all other materials about the regions now embraced by the American southwest were included. This called for an answer, not always easy to give, to two obvious questions. What materials bore the required relationship, and, since other names were formerly applied to regions now within New Mexico and Texas, when did the documents refer to their present-day territories?

An easy solution, in theory, would have been to list all the documents in any legajo selected, but this was impracticable in fact. It was essential that the writer should make a good showing on California history materials—possibly the continuance of the N. S. G. W. fellowships might depend on it—and the documents had to bear an [34] The principal difficulty on this score was to determine whether a document was an original, certified copy, or ordinary copy. An attempt has since been made to correct the slips in this particular, and it is believed that they are now rightly described.

unmistakable California mark. Even after the writer's appointment for a second term, time was all too short, and funds which would have enabled him to carry on the work more expeditiously, through the use of clerks for the purely mechanical tasks, were almost completely lacking during the first year of his incumbency and not overwhelming in amount in his second year. Furthermore, the self-evident California material, even including items relating to lands in the Spanish line of approach to California, comprised, on an average, only a little more than five per cent of the total number in the legajos actually investigated for cataloguing. Not only was it out of the question to list legajos in entirety, but also it was deemed advisable to limit the entry of materials dealing with the territory from Nueva Vizcaya to Texas, since that was found in greater quantity than the more narrowly interpreted California materials. The evident New Mexico and Texas documents, those referring specifically to those regions, continued, as a rule, to be entered, although with some restrictions even in those cases,[35] but the Nueva Vizcaya to Nuevo Santander background was not included.

The general problem came up especially in connection with the question whether it would not be best to confine the cataloguing to some special set of the archive, and to cover that in entirety. The writer once thought of listing the Audiencia de Guadalajara papers of the Simancas, or Audiencia, group of the archive, since that set would almost certainly yield more richly than others for those regions of the northern frontier now within the United States. But it proved to contain 588 legajos, or approximately 200,000 documents—enough for a sixty-volume catalogue! Later, the idea occurred to him of listing some definite subdivision of the above-named set, especially the exceedingly rich files of the Fortificaciones, pertrechos de guerra etc. papers, or the valuable group of the Duplicados of the comandantes generales of the Provincias Internas. Eventually, however, he decided that it was better to make as wide a sweep of California materials as possible, thus establishing the fellowships, and leaving it to later Fellows to ramify from the foundation he would have laid. As matters were, he was able to include the greater part of the Fortificaciones

[35] For example, the greater number of the service sheets entered in the Catalogue are of men known to have had more or less direct relation at some time in their career to the affairs of the Californias; the service sheets of other men, even though they might have served in Texas or New Mexico, were omitted.

papers, and, at his suggestion, a later Fellow, Mr. Karl C. Leebrick, listed the entire set of the above-mentioned Duplicados papers.[36]

Nevertheless, the number of documents entered bearing upon provinces east of Sonora covers a wider range, the writer believes, than any manuscript catalogue for those regions that has ever been published. Approximately two thousand such documents are catalogued, and they represent possibly the great majority of the most important items that might have been selected. The great bulk of the entered items bear directly upon California, and, except for the related materials of the northeastern frontier, very few documents of that character in the legajos catalogued will have escaped the search that was made for them. In all, 207 legajos were investigated, yielding 6257 distinct items for the Catalogue, of which number it is safe to say that over 5000 had never been utilized in historical works. If the separate documents of testimonios, of which there were, perhaps, an unusual number in the legajos investigated, might be included in this list, the total number would almost certainly reach 20,000.[37] Furthermore, as already indicated, [38] the materials were of the highest all-round technical character, and since the Council of the Indies and the ministros generales were the administrative (even though not always the effective) centre for all of Spain's colonies, the larger policies affecting California and the other provinces of the northern frontier are to be found in the documents which passed through their hands, together with an amount of detail that is a never-ending surprise to the Anglo-Saxon mind.

The present Catalogue not only serves as a guide to the materials indicated, but aims to be something more, as well. For much that an investigator may desire, the entry in the Catalogue will suffice. This statement has already been tested in works by Dr. Priestley and the writer which are based on the documents entered here.[39] Natur-

[36] For a brief description of both the Fortificaciones and the Duplicados papers, see Part I, B, 30 and 58 of the Catalogue.

[39] Priestley, Herbert I., José de Gálvez, visitor-general of New Spain, Univ. Calif., Publ. Hist., V, 448 pp., 1916, and Chapman, Charles E., The founding of Spanish California, New York, Macmillan, 1916. In the case of the latter work, citation is made to this Catalogue, but not in that of the former. It may be explained here that the occasional absence of an item at a Catalogue number, as well as the presence of additional items in the case of some numbers, is due to the writer's citation to these materials before the final arrangement of the Catalogue. Wishing to call attention to the work, and being uncertain of its eventual publication, he deemed it ally, the materials of a more immediate bearing on an investigator's subject must be had in extenso, especially in the case of the longer documents, to which it has been impossible to give space in the Catalogue in proportion to their (usually) greater relative value. Furthermore, the Catalogue is much more than a manuscript bibliography of the two works just referred to. Fifty such volumes, not more alike than the widely different works of Dr. Priestley and the present writer, might easily be based almost entirely on the Catalogue, and any number of others could make use of it, at least as an indication of desirable materials. Among the subjects that might be studied with a fair degree of adequacy from the materials here cited, granted that one should also make use of works already in print, are the following: the part played by the regular and secular clergy in Spanish conquests on the northern frontier of New Spain, involving an examination of such institutional topics as the mission system, the problem of secularization, friar lands, etc.; similarly, the part played by the civil and military authorities, with such institutional subjects as the presidio, provincial government, the establishment of a colonial militia, affairs of real hacienda, etc.; similarly, the part played by the civilian population, with such topics as the influence of mining (that especially) and stock raising, the use and treatment of Indians by the whites, race admixture, etc.; the interrelations of the elements just named, with special reference to the conflicts between them; the Indian tribes of the New Spain frontier; the junta de guerra y real hacienda; the fiscal of the Audiencia in actual colonial administration; Spanish fear of foreign encroachment on her dominions of the Pacific, as a spur to Spanish conquests; Spanish efforts at conquest of the Californias in the seventeenth century; the occupation and development of Baja California; the Pima revolt of 1751 and its consequences; the Rubí inspection of the presidios of New Spain; early voyages to Alta California; the beginnings of Spanish Arizona; the Seri wars of Sonora; Apache wars on the northern frontier; the effective Spanish conquest of Sonora; the Spanish occupation of Alta California; the Department of San Blas; Gálvez's reforms in Baja California and Sonora; the administrative evolution of the Californias; Spanish voyages to the northwest coast in the last quarter of the eighteenth century; Spain's attitude toward American voyages along the Pacific coasts of New Spain and the Californias in the last three decades of Spanish rule; the development of Alta California under Spain; a detailed study of the Anza and numerous other expeditions in themselves; the rule of Teodoro de Croix; history of the comandancia general of the Provincias Internas; the relation of the Spanish American revolutions to the Californias, with special reference to the naval attack of the year 1818. These topics and their numerous subdivisions, especially those of a narrative character, are only a few of the subjects for which materials are presented in the Catalogue. Still further indications appear in the legajo descriptions,[40] which are based on the entire legajo, and not merely on the entered material.

IV. Rules for Entry of Items

It has been deemed necessary in order to explain the data in this particular volume, and worth while as a suggestion to other investigators who may do similar work, to give a somewhat detailed description of the methods employed. It is believed that the rules herein given are adapted to meet the conditions of any document that may be found in the Archivo General de Indias.

A. The first paragraph.

1. Function.—The first paragraph contains an indication of the number, date, place, author, and addressee of the entered document.

2. Number.—Entries are arranged in chronological order, and numbered consecutively. These numbers are then used in cross references from one document to another.

3. Date.

(a) Determination of date. When the date is not stated in the document, the actual date is given, in brackets, if it can be ascertained, or, if it cannot, an approximate date, followed by a question mark in parentheses, is entered, and the entire date entry placed within brackets, e. g., [1796 (?)]. Where there is more than one of a given document (see C. 14), all are taken together in determining the date, and the clearest expression is used as the date entry for all; thus, if one such document bore a date and the other did not, the date of the first would be assigned, without brackets, as the date for both.

(b) Expediente and testimonio entries. Where a single year is applied to an entire file, of documents physically bound together, that is entered as the date; if no year is given, one may be supplied in brackets. Inclusive dates are given, in brackets, when the file is composed of but a few documents.

(c) Diaries. Inclusive dates, without brackets, are given in the case of diaries, rather than the date when the author completed, or signed, his diary.

(d) Summaries. Since dates of summaries rarely appear, and decrees, with dates, are usually indicated on them in the margin, the date of the decree has been used, or, if that is missing, an approximate date is given. Brackets are used in both cases.

(e) Abbreviations. The month is written in abbreviated form.

4. Place.

(a) Determination of place. When the place is not stated in the document, the actual place, if ascertainable, is given, followed, in case of doubt, by a question mark in parentheses. Brackets are used in both cases. If not ascertainable, the place is omitted.

(b) Abbreviations are extended, e. g., Mexico for Mexco.

(c) Expediente, testimonio, and diary entries. No place is given.

5. Names of correspondents.

(a) Determination of names. Rule A.4.a., with the substitution of the words "author" or "addressee," is applicable here.

(b) Expediente and testimonio entries. No names are given.

(c) Spelling. Names are spelled as they appear in the particular document, and abbreviations are retained. Where the name of a person is supplied in brackets, however, modern spelling of Christian names and modern usage as to accents are employed, but in other respects the family name is given, where possible, as the individual himself would have written it. If the bracketed name is that of an institution, correct modern form is followed. Abbreviations are not used in brackets.

(d) Anglicized words. Where a suitable English equivalent exists, official titles indicating the author or addressee are translated from the Spanish, e. g., "the king," "the viceroy," "the Council of the Indies," etc. Exception: where a bishop or archbishop signs with his official title, preceded by his Christian name, the Spanish is retained, e. g., Francisco, Obispo de Guadalajara.

(e) Spanish terms treated as English words. Certain institutions, including practically all those which are written with capital letters, are not italicized, e. g., Contaduría General, Tribunal de Cuentas. The Spanish plural "fiscales" of the noun "fiscal" is used, but the word is not italicized.

(f) Number. Not more than three names are used to indicate by whom a letter was written, or to whom it was addressed. In case there were more than that, a group name is used, descriptive of the body which they composed, or the name of one of them, usually the first-named, or occasionally the one deemed the most prominent person, is entered, or in some cases three names are entered, with an indication of the number of the others.

(g) Simplification of names. Official titles and personal descriptive matter are omitted in entry of names of persons. In some cases names between the Christian and the family name are omitted, and occasionally also the last name, which in Spanish usage is the name of the mother. The full name, minus titles and descriptive matter, is retained, however, in the case of original documents—that is, in those that are signed with the name and rubric of the author, in his own hand.

(h) "The viceroy." The viceroy of New Spain is meant, unless otherwise stated.

(i) Use of "the." The definite article is omitted before the name of the author of a document where the next following word is capitalized, e. g., "Conde de," "Council of," but is retained before words not taking a capital letter, e. g., "The king," "The viceroy," "The ministro general." It is always used before the name of an institution or of a titled person being addressed, e. g., "to the Council of the Indies," "to the Marqués de Croix."

(j) "The ministro general," or "The ministro general de Indias." This term is used for an official of changing name and functions, who was apart from, and superior to, the Council of the Indies during the years most intensively covered by the Catalogue. The consistent employment of the correct name is not used, as it would have required the time and labor of an historical monograph to ascertain it in all cases, but in the vast majority of them the actual title was ascertainable and is entered. Usually it has been possible to avoid the difficulty by employing the official's name.

(k) Summaries for the Council of the Indies. Where a summary of a file is followed on the same document by a decree of the Council of the Indies, the Council is named as the author.

6. Letter, enclosure, and filing numbers.—Numbers of letters in a correspondence which has a consecutive series of numbers irrespective of date (letter numbers), those assigned to a series of documents enclosed in a letter of a given date (enclosure numbers), and those placed on correspondence that has been received (filing numbers) are indicated, when they appear, as the closing item of the first paragraph.

B. The second paragraph.

1. Function.—The second paragraph contains a brief indication, or catalogue, of the subject-matter of the entered document.

2. Description of subject-matter in Spanish.—The description placed on the document at the time of its sending or receipt, with abbreviations and modes of spelling, accentuation, and punctuation exactly as they appear, has nearly always been retained, when present. Where both descriptions are present, the one better adapted for entry from the standpoints of brevity, adequacy, and correctness has been chosen, although where both are equally good, as usually happens, the description placed on the document in Spain has been employed; this must be borne in mind in determining the meaning of an entry, e. g., "este reino" in the description of a viceroy's letter will usually mean Spain, not New Spain. In some cases Spanish entries that were exceedingly long, or mistaken, or inadequate have been abbreviated, rejected, or amplified, as the case might be.

3. Descriptions in English.

(a) When employed. The description is given in English, within brackets, where no notation of a Spanish clerk appears, or where it was rejected or amplified for the reasons already mentioned.

(b) Style of English used. The English employed aims to represent what might have been placed on the document at the time, involving frequent use of the present and future verb instead of the past, as would be required if the document were viewed purely from the standpoint of the compiler of this Catalogue. The past tense is more often applicable in the case of expediente and testimonio entries than in the case of single documents.

(c) Spelling of proper names and use of accents. The usage of the particular document is followed.[41] Exceptions: abbreviations are rarely employed; many place names of very familiar usage in English are given in the English form, e. g., Monterey for Monterrey, Vera Cruz for Veracruz, New Mexico, England, France, Russia, United States.

[41] Owing to a different practice used in listing material in the legajos first catalogued, or to occasional inadvertence later, modern spelling and accentuation appear in some cases, but these instances are not numerous.

(d) Use of "Provincias Internas." Where generally descriptive of the region referred to, this phrase has been rendered "frontier provinces;" where employed to describe the political jurisdiction of the comandancia general, the Spanish phrase has been retained.

(e) Use of "Alta California" and "Baja California." For the sake of consistency and in the hope of establishing a practice, these phrases are used, even though it was customary, down to the close of the eighteenth century, to use "la nueva California," "California septentrional," or "los establecimientos de Monterrey" for the former, and "la antigua California" for the latter.

(f) Anglicized words. Rule A. 5. d. (minus the Exception) applies here.

(g) Spanish terms treated as English words. Rule A. 5. e. is applicable.

(h) "The viceroy." Rule A. 5. h. applies.

4. Subordinate documents.—These have been described, as well as the principal document.

5. Expedientes or testimonios bound or sewed together. A single entry for the whole expediente or testimonio is made; the various documents composing them are not entered separately.

C. The third paragraph.

1. Function.—The third paragraph contains such technical data concerning the entered document as has not already been taken up in paragraph one.

2. Use of abbreviations.—The following is a list of those used: Or. for Original; Dft. for Draft; Cer. for Certified copy; the abbreviation for months in dates of certified copies; Uns. for Unsigned; Sum. for Summary; C. for Copy; Dp. for Duplicate; Tp. for Triplicate; 4Dp., 5Dp., etc. for Quadruplicate, Quintuplicate, etc.; p. for page; pp. for pages; Am. Gen. for América en General; Aud. Guad. for Audiencia de Guadalajara; Aud. Mex. for Audiencia de México; Doc. for document; Exp. for expediente; Cuad. for cuaderno; Inf. for Informe; Dec. for Decree; Inc. for Includes; Inc.in for Included in; Acc. for Accompanies; Acc.by for Accompanied by; Enc. for Encloses; Enc.w. for Enclosed with. The words Estante, Cajón, and Legajo are omitted in giving the location, within the archive, of a document; the numbers alone appear, separated by dashes.

3. Originals. A document is considered to be an original when it is signed with the name and rubric, or the rubric alone, of the author, or authors, of the document. The signature by the rubric alone was often employed, especially by fiscales and departmental secretaries, in intra-departmental correspondence.

4. Drafts.—The unsigned file copy retained in the office of origination of the document is called the draft. In practice, the draft was written by a clerk, and corrected by the man who was to sign the eventual original. Clean copies were then made and signed, becoming the original, duplicate original, etc. of documents for which the draft was held as the office copy.

5. Certified copies.—These are copies of originals which are certified to, as agreeing with the documents from which they are copied.[42] The date and place of copying is given, if stated in the document. The notation " Cer. of Cer." indicates a certified copy of a certified copy.

6. Ordinary copies, "C."—In case a copy is not certified, it is entered in this group. If it is possible to determine with certainty the source of the copy, although usually it is not, that is indicated, e. g., " C. of Or.," " C. of Cer." Many documents have been entered as copies when they may well have been originals. This is especially true of petitions, which it was the practice, oftentimes, not to sign, and in the case of some of the letters of the religious, who (possibly because they were frequently of non-Spanish origin) occasionally omitted the rubric, the unfailing proof of an original, in signing documents. Many others marked copies are almost certainly copies of originals or of certified copies, but it has been thought best not to indulge in guesses, even though they would rarely be incorrect.

7. Duplicates, triplicates, etc.—These are documents of practically equal authority with those of which they are an exact copy; thus, the duplicate of an original will have the name and rubric of the author of the original, and so too the triplicate, quadruplicate, etc. The phrase duplicate original (" Or. Dp."), etc. is therefore considered appropriate in describing them.

8. Unsigned documents.—Entries so described refer to documents, other than the draft, lacking the name and rubric of the author. They are confined almost wholly to intra-departmental communications—such as a summary of a file of papers as a basis for action by the Council of the Indies (although occasional extracts, or summaries, [42] In many cases copies from originals are marked " Cer." in the Catalogue, even when the notarial certification was lacking on the document, but this practice was abandoned ultimately.

of a file were enclosed, unsigned, with letters from officials in the colonies)—whereas the draft represents a document sent to somebody outside the originating department.

9. Pages.

(a) Number. Number of pages is indicated by the figure preceding the abbreviation for the word "page" or "pages." Fractions of pages are not considered.

(b) Size of page. This is indicated by a figure 1 or 2 following the abbreviation just referred to. Figure 1 represents a page 31 by 21½ centimetres in size; figure 2, a page of 15½ by 21½ centimetres, or the exact fold, or half, of the preceding. In the rare case of departure from these sizes, the actual size is indicated.

(c) Amount on a page. While this varies greatly, it is almost reducible to rule. By law, royal officers sending out communications under their name and rubric (originals) were required to leave a margin of half the page, and to have broad spaces between lines. In the later eighteenth century, in which the bulk of the documents entered in the Catalogue fall, the law was almost invariably observed. Originals from ecclesiastical officials and from private individuals have scant margins and spaces, following the practice of the person writing. This is also true of all copies, but the certified copies are especially lacking in these respects; the last-named will almost invariably contain more than an average page of print, and will have perhaps five times as many words as the originals of royal officers. An intermediate class, using generous spacing and margins, but not so generous as that employed by documents of the first-named class, is to be found in royal decrees and intra-departmental correspondence.

10. Location of documents.

(a) Location of the legajo in which a document is contained. In the case of the Simancas, or Audiencia, papers, three numbers are used, following the indication of the number and size of pages, to mark the location of the legajo in which the particular document is found. The numbers stand respectively for the estante, cajón, and serial number of the legajo within the cajón, but are commonly referred to, all together, as the legajo number. Certain sets, of which only the Estado group appears in this catalogue, are numbered on a different basis; in the case of the Estado papers, a regional description follows the word Estado, after which comes the serial number of the legajo within the particular section of the group, e. g., Estado,Aud.Mex.,23.

(b) Location of documents within a legajo. This is usually impossible to determine, although the search, in any event, should be but a matter of a few minutes. Occasionally, however, cuaderno (parcel), expediente (file of papers), and document numbers appear, to indicate the order of filing, and in that case they are cited, preceded by a comma, immediately following the legajo number, e. g., Estado,Aud.Mex.23,Doc.12.

11. Indication of documents which have not been entered.

(a) Informes. Opinions of the fiscales which are written on the very document being discussed are indicated by the abbreviation "Inf.," but are not entered separately. In rare instances this stands for the opinion of some other official than the fiscal.

(b) Decrees. In like manner, decrees written on the document under consideration are indicated, but not entered. Such decrees are usually by the ministro general or by the Council of the Indies. Occasionally they are important documents, but as a rule they merely give directions for the handling of the document or expediente in question.

(c) Nota. This marks a marginal reference other than a decree or informe. Routine notations, e. g., Visto en el Consejo, are omitted.

(d) Summaries. The abbreviation "Sum." refers to a summary of an expediente of which all the papers are present, obviating the need for separate entry of the summary. When the expediente is incomplete, such documents are entered, being technically characterized by the abbreviation "Uns." See C.8. above. In the case of summaries for the Council of the Indies, followed on the same document by a decree of the Council, the technical nature of the document is stated with reference to the decree; these documents will usually be entered, therefore, as originals.

12. Relationships of entered documents.

(a) Cross references. Entries are given cross references only with regard to their immediate principal or subordinate documents.

(b) Bases for choice of a principal document.

(1) Where the expediente is composed of an entire legajo or of very many documents. If a separate sheet appears, describing the nature of the file, an entry is made of that, or, if no such sheet appears, an hypothetical sheet may be conceived. That item then becomes the principal entry, and is held to include (Inc.) the principal documents of subordinate expedientes. Cf. C.12.c.

(2) The smaller expedientes that are in good order. Where the file is in the order that it had when last used by the officials handling the matter with which it deals, the first, or outside, document is taken as the principal one, and is said to be accompanied by (Acc.by) the documents immediately subordinate to it. This document will usually be the draft of a letter of the ministro general or other supreme official of the Indies; when it is not, the order of the file as it stands has nevertheless been followed. This class of expediente comprises the overwhelming majority of those entered in the Catalogue.

(3) The expedientes which have lost their original good order. In some cases an attempt has been made to bring together material dealing with the same subject-matter by subordinating other documents to some one of them, but no attempt has been made to change the existing order of the file, even though it would not be a difficult task to restore the logical order; the danger of error if investigators generally should attempt this is manifest; it is precisely in legajos from which copies have been made that lack of good order prevails.

(c) The use of "Inc." Where numerous documents are filed together, by being placed in the same folder or tied together, in cases that are differentiated from an enclosure, the abbreviation "Inc." is made on a principal entry, to indicate that it includes all other principal documents of lesser groups within the same file, and is followed by the entry numbers of the lesser principal documents. Cf. C.12.b.(1). Usually the documents in such a file are closely related in subject-matter, but not always.

(d) The use of "Inc.in." The number following this abbreviation indicates the document to which this one is subordinated in the sense just mentioned in rule c.

(e) The use of "Acc.by." This is used in a similar manner to "Inc." above, but is the principal document of a single expediente, whereas a number of expedientes may be subordinated to the document bearing the abbreviation "Inc."; thus, a document which is "Acc.by" others may be "Inc.in" another. The numbers following the abbreviation "Acc.by" indicate documents, other than enclosures, which have been filed with the one taken as the principal. Cf. C.12.b.(2) and (3). All documents of an expediente usually relate to the same subject matter, but in some cases they do not, due very likely to bad filing.

(f) The use of "Acc." The number following this abbreviation indicates the document to which this one has been subordinated in the sense just mentioned in rule e.

(g) The use of "Enc." The numbers following "Enc." are for documents which were forwarded as enclosures of this particular entry. "Enc." is not used unless the enclosures appear in the expediente.

(h) The use of "Enc.w." The number following this abbreviation indicates the document with which this one was originally enclosed.

(i) Order of indicating relationships. The order employed in indicating relationships is as follows: "Inc.in," "Inc.," "Acc.," "Acc.by," "Enc.w.," "Enc."

13. General comment not otherwise provided for.

(a) Indication of the language of a document that is not in Spanish. Unless the non-Spanish language is used in the description of the document in paragraph two, it is noted in parentheses following the technical description of the document, preceding the indication of pages, e. g., Or.(in French). 2 pp.1.

(b) All other additional matter which may seem desirable of entry. Such matter is placed at the end of the third paragraph. The most frequent instance of such entry, perhaps, is the use of the word "See," followed by numbers representing documents on the same subject matter, to which attention is directed.

14. Additional paragraphs.—Where documents are duplicated by others, especially if they exist in separate legajos, all are given a single entry, but additional paragraphs are made subject to the same rules just given for the third paragraph, with the single exception that the number of pages of a document is omitted in the added paragraphs; though the number may vary from that given in the third paragraph, the latter is a sufficient indication of length. All such duplicates are taken together in determining doubtful points with respect to the first and second paragraphs.

D. Rules of a general nature.

1. Interpretation of handwriting.—Doubtful spellings and connected or disjoined words are written in the correct form if such an interpretation is possible—otherwise not.

2. Handling of abbreviations of words.—Abbreviations, usually marked by the use of superior letters, have been retained in all cases except those specifically excluded in the statement of these rules.

In printing, it has been deemed best to place superior letters on the line with the rest of the word. All abbreviated words, whether marked in the original by superior letters or not, are followed, in printing, by a period. Lack of the usual space before the next following letter will show that the period is for an abbreviation, and not for a full stop.

3. Making of slips for entry.—The papeletas, or slips, should be made in duplicate, by use of carbon paper and the stylographic pen. This enables the investigator to retain his original legajo file with one set, and to place the other in chronological order.

THE CATALOGUE

PART I

Description of Legajos Used in Compiling the Catalogue

A. General considerations.

1. Character of the legajos investigated.—The principal idea in the choice of legajos for cataloguing was the likelihood of their containing materials for California history. A second aim was to secure legajos of such an all-round character that the description of a few of them might serve to indicate the kinds of material in all. The descriptions that follow represent, therefore, not only an account of the 207 legajos investigated, but also a characterization of a total of 621 legajos in the sets described, and in a measure furnish a clue to the contents of the Estado and Audiencia groups of papers as a whole, since the other legajos will in great degree be similar in names and materials to those which are here described. This entailed an investigation of legajos, which, in the majority of cases, had never been opened since being filed, a century before. The search was often barren or meagre, though not always so, from the standpoint of items for the Catalogue, but was well repaid in the store of information it supplied with regard to matters, particularly those of an institutional character, of interest or value for other purposes than that of the present investigation.

2. Meaning of NPC.—At the end of many of the legajo descriptions, the letters NPC are placed to indicate that the documents of that legajo which were catalogued had not previously been copied, up to the time of the writer's investigation. This was determinable, in that a notation, written with a pencil, of the legajo number was placed on a document when it was removed from a legajo for copying, and this served, not only as a means for replacing the document, but also as a record whether it might have been copied. The rule was not absolute, for it is conceivable that the documents might have been removed for other purposes, though rarely, or that the archive clerk might have neglected to make the pencilled notation, or that the marks might not have been seen by the writer, since there was no specific place for them. The writer believes, however, that few, if any, documents of those catalogued will have been copied in legajos bearing the NPC mark. Furthermore, in most of the legajos which lack the NPC characterization, the very great majority of the documents had never been copied for historical purposes. Since that time, however, many copies have been made from these legajos.[1] Recently a system has been instituted at the Archivo General de Indias, whereby a definite record is kept, both in the office of the head of the archive and in the legajo itself, of copies that are made, with a statement of the date of copying, name and nationality of the investigator, subject of the investigation, number and title of the legajo, number of copies made, object of the work and use to be made of the copies, and a summary of their contents.[2]

3. Numerical order of the legajos on which the catalogue is based.

The numbers at the left in the above list represent merely the total of legajos up to that point in the writer's Catalogue. Am.Gen. stands for América en General, Aud.Guad. for Audiencia de Guadalajara, and Aud.Mex. for Audiencia de México. In ordering from or citing Estado legajos, full entry must be made, as in items 1 to 36 above. In the case of all the other legajos order or citation by number alone is sufficient. The reference to the Audiencia is therefore omitted in the following section, devoted to the descriptions.

[1] See n. 14 of the Introduction.

[2] The system is described in Hill, Descriptive catalogue, pp. x, xi.

B. Legajo descriptions.

1. The Papeles de Estado group.—This entire set is composed of 105 legajos, dating from 1750 to 1836; in 1871, they were turned over by the ministry of state (Estado) to the Archivo General de Indias.[3] The documents are of the same sort as those in the Audiencia group of the Simancas papers; they are divided into the same thirteen subdivisions by colonial Audiencias, plus one other called America en general; they merely represent certain of the papers about colonial affairs, by no means all, for the years in question, which were taken up with the state department by that of the Indies. A useful manuscript catalogue by expedientes already exists at the Archivo General de Indias; a description of the principal document of an expediente is made, with a mention of the subordinate documents filed with it. The expedientes, or "documentos," are numbered consecutively, and that numbering has been retained in the present Catalogue. Thirty-six legajos in this set were examined. Entry of items was based on expedientes touching upon affairs in the Pacific, with a direct or indirect bearing upon the Californias. In all, there were over 2500 expedientes in the thirty-six legajos, of which 193, yielding 618 items, were entered. Very few of the entered documents bore marks showing that they had ever been removed for copying, although in three legajos particularly rich in diaries of Spanish voyages to the northwest coast and of Spanish expeditions in Alta California and in correspondence of the Spanish ministers to Russia about Russian activities in the far northwest (Aud.Guad.1, and Aud.Mex.1 and 19) the entered material had been quite generally copied.[4]

In addition to the material just mentioned, these legajos are especially noteworthy for their Spanish accounts of voyages along the Pacific coasts of New Spain and the Californias by English, American, Spanish-American revolutionary, and so-called pirate ships during the last three decades of Spanish rule. There is also much valuable material about Gálvez's reforms and the complaints against him. The affairs of San Blas, including frequent reference to the project of removing the Department from that port to Acapulco, the Manila galleon trade, and Spanish exploration of the Hawaiian (Sandwich) Islands are prominent in the entered material.

The most important items of those omitted in cataloguing dealt with the Spanish-American War of Independence, which is very fully treated here.[5] For the earlier years, there is much about precautions against foreign ships in the Gulf of Mexico, foreign residents in New Spain, American and English aggressions, and the efforts to check seditious doctrines. Less important, perhaps, are papers about remissions of treasure or of the Gaceta of Mexico to Spain, the receipt of the mails in New Spain, and the petitions of individuals.

2. Legajo 60–4–37. Viage y derrotero de las naos que fueron al Descubrimiento del Puerto de Acapulco a cargo del general Sebastian Vizcayno. Años 1602. This small legajo contained only the important item entered in the Catalogue as number 6. It refers to Vizcaíno's expedition, not to Acapulco, but from there to Monterey and the Alta California coast. The material had previously been copied for the Bancroft Library.

3. Legajos 67–3–27 to 31. Espediente sobre el descubrimiento, conquista y misiones de la provincia de la California. Años 1602 á 1758. These are exceedingly important legajos for the field embraced by the Catalogue, and, with one or two minor exceptions, every document was entered.[6] In all, there were 262 items catalogued, including many valuable and bulky testimonios. All of the documents bear removal marks, but it seems probable that the larger testimonios were not in fact copied; certainly very many of them have never been exploited. Legajos 67–3–27 and 67–3–28 bear upon Spain's activities with regard to the Californias, principally Baja California, and, except for the omission of the Vizcaíno voyage to Alta California (for which 60–4–37 is available), they form an adequate set of materials for an entire rewriting of Spanish efforts to procure a foothold in the Californias in the seventeenth century,—for such attempts were made after Vizcaíno's time, despite the oft-written statements that they were not. In 67–3–28, there is much about the early history of Baja California, following its settlement in 1697. Legajos 67–3–29 and 67–3–31, covering the years 1731 to 1758, are rich in materials for Baja California, but even more so for Sonora and Pimería Alta, as

[5] The omission in this case is of slight consequence, since the Estado papers were drawn upon liberally by Señor Torres Lanzas in his Independencia de América; fuentes para su estudio; catálogo de documentos conservados en el Archivo General de Indies de Sevilla, ser. 1, 6 vols., Madrid, 1912.

[6] In 67–3–28, one of the first legajos catalogued by the writer, the subordinate documents of a file were not in all cases listed. Cf. entry number 79. This is the only legajo so handled.

the region embracing the northern part of modern Sonora and southern Arizona was formerly called, and in 67–3–31 there are a few Nueva Vizcaya documents. Nevertheless, there is an essential unity in the materials, for they bear very largely on questions of northward advance. Legajo 67–3–30, for the year 1751, relates wholly to Nueva Vizcaya, containing only ten items, due to the presence of several huge testimonios. The names of Vizcaíno, the Cardonas, Iturbe, Ortega, Carbonel, Porter, Pynadero, Otondo, Salvatierra, Kino, Rodero, the Marqués de Aysa, Escobar, Consag, and Sánchez are a few which suggest the nature of the documents, but there is much else at present buried in the testimonios about Indian wars and related matters (such as the founding of presidios and missions) in Baja California, Sonora, and Nueva Vizcaya, secularization of the Jesuit missions of Tepehuana and Topia, projects for colonization of the Californias, and the general progress of the Spanish advance.[7]

4. Legajo 67–4–45. Espediente sobre las volas y planchas halladas en la primeria alta en la provincia de Sonora. Años 1737 á 1740. This relates to the spectacular discovery, in 1736, of the balls of silver at Arizona (otherwise Arissona or Arizonac), and to the action taken at Mexico and Madrid in consequence. The documents range from 1736 to 1739, instead of the dates given above, and show that the event led, not only to a rush of settlers to Sonora, but also to suggestions for an advance of the northern frontier. The whole legajo was entered, yielding twenty-four items, several of them bulky testimonios. NPC

5. Legajo 67–5–3. Espediente sobre el estado del Gobierno de la Nueva Vizcaya; y excesos que cometen los Yndios barbaros y Apostatos en sus fronteras. Años 1755 á 1756. The title accurately describes the contents. Some copies had been made, which may account for the disorder of the legajo. Because of the presence of several testimonios, the legajo contained only sixteen items, all of which were entered.

6. Legajo 88–5–13. Virreynato. Instrucciones que dejaban los Virreyes á los sucesores. Años 1772 á 1801. Along with a few remitting letters this contained the following instructions of viceroys to their successors: the Marqués (Francisco) de Croix to Bucarely; the Caballero (Teodoro) de Croix, as viceroy of Peru, to Gil; two of

[7] A considerable part of the material in these legajos has been copied for the Bancroft Library.

Revilla Gigedo (the younger) to Branciforte; two of Azanza to Marquina. All were entered. NPC

7. Legajo 88–5–14. Virreynato. Ynstrucciones dadas al Virrey Bucareli, Cedulas, Minutas de despachos y provisiones del Virreynato. Años 1760 á 1819. This is an excellent legajo for the study of the ceremonial surrounding the viceroy's position, particularly as to honors, titles, and privileges granted him upon entering office. Nothing was entered. NPC

8. Legajos 88–5–17 and 18. Virreynato. Corresponda.confidencial con los Virreyes. Años 1766 á 1779. These were made up of the personal correspondence of Viceroy Bucarely between 1766 and 1777, for no letters appear for 1778 and 1779. The first legajo was composed principally of letters between Bucarely and General Alejandro O'Reilly, while there is also a file, for the year 1771, of semiofficial correspondence of Bucarely with José de Gálvez, the Marqués de Croix, and Archbishop Lorenzana, prior to Bucarely's arrival in Mexico as the successor of Croix. Bucarely's letters are drafts, for the file seems to have belonged personally to him, while the other letters are originals. The correspondence with O'Reilly is especially interesting, because of its intimate nature. While the body of the letters is usually in the handwriting of a clerk, both Bucarely and O'Reilly frequently added matter in their own hands, especially long postscripts, and in several cases dispensed with the use of a clerk altogether. The letters are of great importance, as will appear from the following explanation. Bucarely wished very much to retire—would in fact have preferred to return to Spain from Havana rather than become viceroy of New Spain—and O'Reilly desired equally to succeed him as viceroy. Thus, O'Reilly was eager to learn, and Bucarely glad to relate, the principal events and problems of the viceroyalty. From 1769 (while Bucarely was still in Havana) to 1775, the file shows a letter a month from each; there are also single letters of O'Reilly for 1766, 1776, and 1777, and of Bucarely for 1776 and 1777. Unlike official letters, which were limited to treatment of a single subject, this correspondence ranges at the will of the writers, but for that very reason it gives an element of proportion less easy to determine in official documents. The affairs of the northern frontier are thus revealed as a very important item in the viceroy's attention. One interesting sidelight was the prominent place accorded Hugo Oconor in this correspondence. Oconor seems to have been a protégé of

O'Reilly, who never failed to enquire about his friend, and Bucarely was equally consistent in giving the news; indeed, the student of Oconor's important work on the northern frontier must not neglect this file.

Forty-six of Bucarely's letters to O'Reilly were entered, and the other documents of the legajo omitted. The making of the entry was difficult, not only because of the variety of the subject matter, but also because of the utterly wretched handwriting of Bucarely. An attempt was made to state the principal fact discussed in the letter, with added comment about matters bearing upon the affairs of Alta California.[8]

The documents of 88–5–18 consist of Bucarely's private correspondence with the Marqués de Losadas, during the period while Bucarely was captain-general in Cuba. None of these documents were entered. NPC

9. Legajos 88–5–22 and 23. Virreynato. Expedte.de visitas de las Cajas Reales de Acapulco hecha por D.Jose de Galvez. Años 1771 á 1772. The two legajos deal with the frauds discovered (or, at least, alleged) in connection with the visitation of the cajas reales of Acapulco, Gálvez's dismissal of the Acapulco oficiales reales, and their petitions for reinstatement (which seem ultimately to have been successful). Legajo 88–5–22 contained twenty-six items, most of them testimonios of 1771, made up of documents of earlier date. The seventy-eight documents of 88–5–23 ranged between the years 1763 and 1773. All were entered. NPC[9]

10. Legajos 88–5–24 and 25. Virreynato. Expedte.de la visita de D. Jose Galvez sobre todas las Rentas de Real Hacda. Años 1767 á 1776. The forty-three items of 88–5–24 and the eighty-four of 88–5–25, all of them entered, include many documents of the greatest value for an understanding of the Gálvez visita of 1765–1771. Most of them fall within the years of the visita, although some go as far back as the year 1752. They deal with the whole subject of Gálvez's reforms in commerce and real hacienda. Documents about Vera Cruz and Mexico City are in the majority, but only because, as the principal port and leading city, those places were essential factors in any general project. Legajo 88–5–25 is most largely composed of the opinions of others about the reforms of the visitador, including

[8] The writer regrets to say that this task was confided by him to a clerk.

[9] Many were copied for Dr. Priestley, who used them in his volume on the Gálvez visita.

detailed objections of the Consulado of Mexico and of Tomás Ortiz de Landazuri, chief of the Contaduría General, but also including the important opinion of the fiscales of Castile, Campomanes and Moñino (better known as the Conde de Floridablanca), whose voluminous report (see item number 1722) sustained Gálvez. NPC[10]

11. Legajos 88–6–18 to 20. Virreynato. Cartas y espedientes del Virrey. The entire set with this title is composed of seventy-one legajos, dating from 1537 to 1821. The three that were investigated contain well-ordered expedientes dealing with administrative details, principally about real hacienda. They are respectively for the years 1772, 1773, and 1774; the first has fifteen expedientes (two to sixteen, inclusive, number one having been withdrawn in 1804), the second, fourteen (one to thirteen and one unnumbered), and the third, thirteen (one to twelve and one unnumbered). The following are some of the topics: petitions for increase of salary; papers relating to the repair of public buildings in Mexico; an expediente about a governor of Tlaxcala who had just quitted his post; the authorization for one Joseph Marion to carry 4000 pesos' worth of goods from Acapulco to Manila; the departure of fleets from Vera Cruz bound for Spain; minor ecclesiastical and administrative appointments; the resignation of an alcalde mayor; an expediente about the commerce of Vera Cruz with other Atlantic coast ports; an expediente about raising a military company to guard certain eastern towns; and an expediente arising from the publication, without license, of a certain book. Nothing was entered. NPC

12. Legajos 89–3–22 and 23, and 89–6–1 to 24. Virreynato. Duplicados del Virrey. The entire set of the Duplicados of the viceroys consists of 180 legajos, dating from 1664, but all except twenty-three are for the years 1751 to 1823. Only the above cited twenty-six were investigated. Legajo 89–3–22, for the years 1769 and 1770, during the administration of the Marqués de Croix, aroused great expectations as to the wealth of the entire set in materials coming within the scope of the Catalogue. Most of the expedientes in this legajo have a numbered duplicate of Croix's, signed with his name and rubric, as the principal document, the others being enclosures and the whole file being directed to the ministro general de Indias, Julián de Arriaga. Many lack the serial number and the legally required index, or description, as well, for Croix seems to have been unsystematic in this respect. The bulk of the legajo, however, is due to a few unnumbered originals of Croix, with their enclosures of testimonios. While the materials were, in the main, like those of 89–6–1 to 24 (presently to be described) in subject matter, there were sixteen valuable expedientes, with a total of seventy-nine documents, most of which treat, in detailed fashion (with diaries, letters, and estados), of the sea and land expeditions of 1769 to Alta California. Legajo 89–3–23, for the year 1772, contained thirty-two of Bucarely's duplicates, with enclosures, but only two, of slight importance, were entered.

The writer was prompted to investigate legajos 89–6–1 to 24 by a hope that he would find additional materials about foreign voyages to the northwest coast in the years covered by the correspondence, 1785 to 1795, and, in particular, some further light on the Nootka affair. In this respect, the legajos were disappointing. The numbered correspondence of the viceroys Bernardo de Gálvez, Archbishop Alonzo Núñez de Haro, Flórez, Revilla Gigedo, and Branciforte, and of the Audiencia of Mexico acting as viceroy, is very nearly complete; even when missing, its character can usually be determined by the lists of indices of the viceroys' letters, describing all that they wrote, except those marked reservada; even the reservadas are usually here. Nevertheless, surprisingly little within the range of this Catalogue, or even of any wide narrative interest, was found, whether in the letters in ordinary course or in the reservadas. There is almost an entire absence of materials touching upon the American southwest. The Pacific coast fares better, owing to the recurrence of letters about the "pious fund" of the Californias and the Department of San Blas. There are also several expedientes about local affairs in Alta California, including the Fages proposal for reopening the route from Sonora.

For routine matters, of a general administrative character, the legajos may well have considerable value. As already mentioned in the case of legajo 89–3–22, they are made up of the duplicates of the viceroys, with their enclosures, the whole file in each case duplicating that of the original. The action taken in Spain on the expedientes is lacking, but it can often be determined by the later answers of the viceroys. In some cases the originals are in these legajos, though without the additional documents arising from official attention in Spain,[11] and in three cases both the original and duplicate of a viceroy are present. Some other materials, possibly due to an error in filing, are occasionally found, especially in 89–6–18, where there are a number of testimonios (not catalogued) about the financial affairs of Guanajuato, covering the years 1768 to 1792. Disregarding these materials and the three above-mentioned duplications, there are 1841 expedientes, each a viceroy's letter and its enclosures, in the twenty-four legajos, of which only forty-six were entered, yielding ninety-eight items. A large proportion of the expedientes not catalogued deal with appointments to office, chiefly military appointments, while there is also considerable material about affairs of the city of Mexico and about the church. NPC

13. Legajo 91–5–25. Virreynato. Espedientes diarios. Años 1770. This is the first legajo in a series of twenty, covering the years 1770 to 1799. It is made up of such matters as petitions of individuals to come to the Americas, of high officials of Mexico asking permission to marry, and of matters pertaining to lawsuits and routine administration. Areche's request for permission to marry was the only document entered. NPC

14. Legajo 91–6–17. Virreynato. Espedientes Consultados por el Consejo. Años 1772 á 1800. This is wholly concerned with matters of real hacienda for the years 1782 to 1796, most of the expedientes (not numbered and in some disorder) relating to the port of Vera Cruz. Nothing was entered. NPC

15. Legajo 95–6–7. Virreynato. Embarco de tropas á distintos puntos. Años 1765 á 1778. While of great general value, this legajo contained nothing for the present Catalogue. It concerned the embarking of troops from Spain, not only to New Spain, but also to Havana, Nicaragua, Lima, and Buenos Aires. One expediente is for the year 1761. NPC

16. Legajo 95–7–16. Virreynato. Fortificaciones, Pertrechos de Guerra, Situados de Tropa y sus Incidencias. Años 1769 á 1770. This is one of a set containing thirty legajos between the years 1721 and 1818. Except for an expediente of six documents about Gálvez's work and loss of health while in Sonora in 1769, nothing in this legajo was entered. The legajo is concerned with routine military matters for central and southern New Spain, more particularly for the cities of Vera Cruz and Mexico. Petitions for promotion or retirement, promotions granted, and monthly reviews of regiments and posts make up almost the entire legajo. Among the unentered items are the following: papers about the review of Domingo Elizondo's regiment of dragones de España; an expediente giving the names and salaries of military engineers of New Spain, including a reference to the promotion of Miguel Costansó, for his services in the Alta California expedition of 1769; a petition of Diego Parrilla containing documents concerning his services and campaigns in Texas. NPC

17. Legajo 96–1–11. Virreynato. Papeles y Planos relativos á la guerra de la Sonora. Años 1767 á 1771. This is a small legajo of less than three hundred pages, containing thirty items, all of which were entered. The greater part of the documents is divided between Armona's accounts of the campaign around the Cerro Prieto and the viceroy's letters to Spain giving the latest news about the war in Sonora. NPC

18. Legajos 96–1–12 and 13. Virreynato. Cuentas de la Expedicion á Sonora. Años 1766 á 1775. The two legajos aggregate 3450 pages of material, nearly all of which relates to the financial accounts of the Sonora expeditions of 1766 to 1771. Some accounts for the Alta California and Nueva Vizcaya expeditions and for the expenses of the Department of San Blas, in the same documents with the Sonora accounts, also appear, for activities in these regions were regarded as falling within the same general plan. The value of the whole is very great. Many of the testimonios of the two legajos duplicate each other. The majority are dated 1776 and 1777, when the accounts were completed. All of the documents were entered, yielding ninety items. NPC

19. Legajos 97–4–5 and 6. Eclesiastico. Espedte.sobre liquidacion de cuentas y venta de fincas del fondo piadoso de Misiones de California. Años 1805. The two legajos may be taken as comprising one expediente, with a total of 136 items, all of which were catalogued. The documents are not for the date given above, but range between 1766 and 1797. The specific question giving rise to the expediente first appears in 1771, although there are some inventories of Jesuit goods of prior date. The issue raised was whether a sum of 136,184 pesos, expended on the expeditions of 1769 to Alta California, should be charged to the pious fund of the Californias or to real hacienda. Out of this came a discussion whether the pious fund should continue to be administered separately by the Juzgado de Temporalidades or whether it should become a branch of real hacienda and have its estates sold. The latter course was decided upon, in 1781, but the law seems not to have been executed for several years. The above is the principal content of 97–4–5. The documents of 97–4–6 relate to the sale of the above-mentioned estates and the status of the pious fund after it became a branch of real hacienda, but most of the items cover matters of routine administration of the fund. In both legajos there is much material of value incidental to the main theme, of which a number of estados showing receipts and disbursements of the pious fund for 1767 to 1792 are perhaps the most noteworthy items.

NPC

20. Legajo 103–3–6. Registros de oficio. Reales ordenes dirigidas á las autoridades del distrito. Años 1745 á 1766. This is the last of a set of six legajos for the years 1554 to 1766. The legajo investigated was composed of two bound volumes, for respectively 1745 to 1758 and 1758 to 1766. Each contains copies of royal orders to the viceroys, the Audiencia of Guadalajara, officials of the cathedral at Guadalajara, and to others, with reference to affairs within the region embraced by the jurisdiction of the Audiencia of Guadalajara. The subject matter varies, from the most general in character, to orders respecting particular individuals. Thirty such royal orders (entered separately) were catalogued. They dealt with Indian wars in Pimería Alta, the Spanish projects of conquest toward the Gila and Colorado rivers, and Spanish fears of French intrusions in Texas in the years preceding the cession of Louisiana to Spain. NPC

21. Legajo 103–3–10. Yndice de Cedulas y Reales Ordenes. Años 1760 á 1805. The real dates of the Indice are 1670 (not 1760) to 1774, although there are a few separate documents running to the year 1805, one of which, an item about Texas, was the only entered document of the legajo. The principal part of the legajo is the Índice, which may be best described by copying its title: Índice de las Cedulas mas particulares expedidas de oficio, y á instancia de Partes—al Distrito de la Audiencia de Guadalaxara desde el año de 1670 hasta el tiempo presente; sacado de los Libros de Registro . . . y puesto en orden alfabético, arreglado a las materias de que tratan . . . Por Martin Osorio . . . Año de 1774. The alphabetical arrangement of subject matter contains descriptions, similar to those in the items of the present Catalogue, giving the gist of each real cédula. There were six such items between 1688 and 1721 under the heading " Californias." There is no indication of the legajo in which the cédulas themselves are to be found. NPC

22. Legajo 103–3–12 and 13. Consultas, Decretos y ordenes originales. These were two of a set of nine legajos for the years 1760 to 1821. Legajo 103–3–12 was for 1765 to 1771, and 103–3–13 for 1772 to 1781. The greater part of these legajos consists of the recommendations of the Council of the Indies to the king, accompanied by the opinions of the fiscal, without other documents, thus enabling one to get at once to the meat of a matter. Both are originals. The legajos are in admirably good order, the expedientes being grouped by years and numbered consecutively within each year group. In addition to the principal class of expedientes there are some called (in 103–3–12) Consultas sobre materias seculares, made up primarily of the correspondence within the Council itself, but occasionally including also the documents upon which action was based.

Legajo 103–3–12 yielded nineteen items of minor importance. Among unentered expedientes was one of 1768 arising from Gálvez's order to the Audiencia of Guadalajara prohibiting it from hearing cases of fraud in connection with the levy of the alcabala, and two respectively of 1769 and 1770, about a Frenchman of Guadalajara named Pedro Molina and a Portuguese of Cucula named Joseph Mederos, arising from petitions of these foreigners that they be allowed to remain in the Spanish colonies. Legajo 103–3–13, yielding sixteen items, proved of great value, owing to the bulk and importance of two of the entries, respectively 2906 and 3293 in the Catalogue. Other noteworthy Alta California materials deal with the pious fund and with the proposed custodia of San Gabriel. NPC

23. Legajo 103–3–21. Remisiones al Consejo, Camara, y Ministros. Años 1737 á 1800. The idea in the formation of this legajo seems to have been to bring together the drafts of letters of the ministros generales remitting materials to the Council of the Indies for action. As a rule, the other documents of the expediente do not appear, although in some cases, usually of minor interest, they are present. Were the file complete, it would be of very great importance, because of the range of the subject matter, despite the lack of detail—nothing but the summary in the remitting letter. For many years, however (1738–1744, 1747, 1748, 1750–1755, 1757, 1758, 1760–1762, 1765), there were no such letters; in very few years were there more than ten; and, in any event, the drafts for the more important matters do not seem to have been filed here. Nevertheless, a number of documents not found in other legajos were indicated here, and twenty-four items were entered. In the case of materials dealing with Bishop Reyes' difficulties in connection with the custodias of San Gabriel (Alta California), Sonora, and New Mexico, the accompanying documents are present. Possibly the most important of the material not catalogued was the complete file, dated 1798, of documents giving most ample statistical data for the intendancy of Guadalajara. The case of the Frenchman, Pedro Molina, referred to in the description of 103–3–12, is also well documented here. Another legajo in this set, 103–3–22, for the years 1801 to 1821, was not examined for cataloguing.

NPC

24. Legajos 103–3–24 and 25. Ynformes sobre el estado de las Provincias Ynternas por su comandante general D. Teodoro de Croix. Años 1781 á 1782. These two legajos contain some of the most important materials discovered by the present writer, and especially 103–3–24, a legajo of over three thousand pages, in which appear certain memorials, heroic in size and equally valuable, by Teodoro de Croix. Three of these memorials (catalogued at numbers 4082, 4430, and 4568) represent perhaps the most thorough statement with regard to the region of the Provincias Internas, especially as regards Indian warfare, that ever was made. While Sonora, Nueva Vizcaya, and Coahuila occupy the major part of the space, the entire area of his government, from the Californias to Texas, comes in for an illuminating discussion by Croix. There are but nine documents in the legajo. Croix's letter number 788 and its two enclosures, dealing with the militia of Saltillo and vicinity, were not entered. None of the documents in 103–3–25 were catalogued, although the materials are important in their relations to the Spanish line of advance to Texas. The entire legajo (over two thousand pages in length) is a single expediente, of which the principal document is Teodoro de Croix's letter number 835 to José de Gálvez, enclosing four carpetas, of which the first (the bulk of the legajo) is divided into four cuadernos. The documents are wholly about military affairs in Coahuila and the adjacent parts of Texas, during the period of Ugalde's rule in Coahuila, dealing principally with Ugalde's campaigns against the Mescaleros Apaches.

NPC

25. Legajo 103–3–26. Padrones de matriculas de familias pobladoras. Años 1777 á 1804. While nothing in this legajo was entered, the material is decidedly important in itself. Most of the legajo is made up of padrones, or census reports, of the year 1777. The padrones are nearly all for the province of Guadalajara (not the entire area embraced by the jurisdiction of the Audiencia), although they also exist for the cities of Culiacán, Durango, and some others. They cover all householders and their families and servants, giving the age and blood (Spanish, mulatto, "coyote," Indian) of each person. Among the few other documents of the legajo is a representation concerning the province of Guadalajara, giving most detailed data concerning geographical, political, military, financial, commercial, agricultural, mining, stock raising, and industrial affairs of the province of Guadalajara. This document is dated September 6, 1804. NPC

26. Legajo 103–3–28. Provisiones de Empleos Politicos y Militares. Años 1761 á 1794. This is the first legajo in a set of two, the second being for the years 1795 to 1804. The title and dates of the legajo aroused hopes that were doomed to disappointment. The military appointments were comparatively few; those of officials of the Audiencia of Guadalajara, alcaldes, and treasury and customs officials filled most of the legajo. By no means all of the appointments are included; there are none for 1762 and 1763 [due to the war?], although other years are at least represented. Ten items were entered. NPC

27. Legajo 103–4–4. Confirmacion de oficios vendibles y renunciables. Años 1766 á 1773. This is one of a set of six, for the years 1760 to 1799, dealing with royal confirmations in the case of offices that were salable and renunciable. The offices concerned were those of notary and regidor in towns within the jurisdiction of the Audiencia of Guadalajara, but not, as a rule, in that city itself. Nothing was entered. NPC

28. Legajos 103–4–9 and 10. Correspondencia con el Comandante general de las Provincias Internas. Legajo 103–4–9 is for the years 1760 to 1782, and 103–4–10, for 1782 to 1802, but the inclusive dates are not strictly observed. A third legajo, dating from 1803 to 1821, was not examined. The two legajos yielded 187 items for the Catalogue, including material concerning the founding of settlements in Alta California during the Neve régime, and such important items as those numbered 3965, 4912, and 5194 in the Catalogue. In general, however, the documents are not of a noteworthy character. Not a few presidial appointments are included. The uncatalogued expedientes are principally concerned with events in Nueva Vizcaya, together with a lesser number for the other eastern provinces just south of the present

American border. In this group are documents dealing with the Indian wars of the Bolsón de Mapimí and elsewhere, some census reports (e. g., one for Coahuila in 1778, showing the population according to differences in blood, enumerating the arms and livestock the people had, and giving data about the fertility of Coahuilan soil), an expediente based on a letter of Croix's stating why he was remaining in Nueva Vizcaya (instead of going to Sonora, as ordered), material about the status and rank of the flying companies, a review of Río Grande presidio, and other expedientes of a like character. Attention may be called to the large number of indices of letters written by the comandantes generales, especially in 103–4–10; in this respect, the file approaches completeness. A document in 103–4–10 about the gold and silver output of Chile seems to have been placed there by mistake. NPC

29. Legajos 103–4–12 to 14. Corresponda.con el Comandante general de las Provincias Ynternas D. Teodoro de Croix. Legajo 103–4–12 is for 1779, and each of the other two for 1782. In the case of the first named, the year is that of letters by Croix (and a number by Bucarely and the president of the Audiencia of Guadalajara) in New Spain; in the other two legajos it is the date of Gálvez's replies from Spain, while most of Croix's letters are for the years 1779 to 1781. The basis for entry in cataloguing these legajos was restricted to items bearing upon Alta California and the approaches thereto, with a yield of 185 items. Among these documents there is much material about Neve's activities for an increase in the number of settlers and settlements in Alta California, with indications of the progress achieved by the missions and pueblos that were founded. Papers about Anza's discovery of a route from New Mexico to Sonora and others about the insubordination of the troops at Terrenate, as a result of the treatment accorded them in the matter of purchasing supplies, are noteworthy items. If material for Texas and provinces of the Provincias Internas contiguous to it had been included, the number of entered items would have been more than doubled, and many interesting documents would have been added. There is a great deal about Apache warfare in Coahuila and Texas and local materials for San Sabá, Paso del Norte, and various posts along the southern bank of the Río Grande. Another type of expediente of frequent appearance is that of the últimas noticias (latest news) letters, many of which were entered, about Indian warfare in the Provincias Internas during the preceding month, with an indication of the losses incurred and inflicted, by the Spaniards and Indians respectively. NPC[12]

30. Legajos 103–4–15 to 24 and 103–5–1 to 13. Duplicados de Comandantes generales de las provincias Ynternas. These twenty-three legajos, dating from 1771 to 1802, form part of a set of which there are five more legajos, for the years 1803 to 1821. In no group were the rules for exclusion of material from the Catalogue more rigorously applied. Only such documents as referred to the Californias or had a very direct bearing on the affairs of Alta California were entered. Thus, material for New Mexico and Texas (except in legajos 103–4–15 and 16) was not entered, unless it appeared in documents referring to the Californias. Down to 1783, Sonora materials were entered liberally, but after that date, when the Spanish advance by way of the Gila and Colorado rivers had in fact stopped, the Sonora documents were omitted.[13]

Legajos 103–4–15 and 16 are to be regarded separately from the others of the set. Of fifty-two items that were entered, comprising most of the two legajos, one is an estado showing the condition of the frontier presidios in 1771, except those of the Californias and Nuevo Santander; another is the printed decree establishing a line of frontier presidios; and the other fifty, the basis for the two just named, are testimonios covering the inspection of the frontier presidios by the Marqués de Rubí in the years 1766 to 1768. All are dated 1771, the year the testimonios were made up, but the various documents within the testimonios are for the years of the Rubí inspection. Among the few unentered materials, there is one expediente of 1777, based on reports of Governor Barry of Nueva Vizcaya, reciting the misfortunes of his province as a result of Indian wars; one estado in this expediente shows the losses by each alcaldía in men and property since 1771.

The duplicados proper begin with legajo 103–4–17 of the year 1778. Just as in the case of the already described duplicados in the Audiencia of Mexico group, the general comment for which applies, they are made up principally of the numbered duplicates (and their [12] Many of the documents in 103–4–12 were nearly as solid and hard as wood when found by the writer. They appear to have become water-soaked, and then to have remained perhaps a hundred years or more before they were opened by the writer for examination. Once the stiffness had been taken out, they were as pliable as most other manuscript material, but the writing was all but illegible.

[13] The omissions are of less moment than might otherwise have been the case, since it is this set which Dr. Leebrick has catalogued in entirety, with a yield of over five thousand items.

enclosures) in the series of the letters of the comandantes generales of the Provincias Internas to the ministros generales in Spain.[14] They are of unquestionable importance (despite the lack of the drafts of replies from Spain) for the affairs of the Provincias Internas during practically the entire period in which they formed a comandancia general in a measure distinct from the viceroyalty of New Spain. Not a few letters in the numbered series are missing, but it is often possible to determine what they deal with, through the presence of indices of the correspondence for a given month's mail. In three legajos (103–4–19, 103–5–4, and 103–5–7) there are expedientes based on letters of intendants to the authorities in Spain; in two (103–5–7 and 8), of the president of the Audiencia of Guadalajara; in two (103–5–4 and 103–5–7), of various individuals, particularly ecclesiastical officials; in four (103–5–8 to 10 and 103–7–12), based on unnumbered letters of Ugarte; and in one (103–5–9), on the unnumbered letters of Nava. Beginning with 103–4–17, there were 1060 expedientes in the numbered letter series of the comandantes generales. From a regional standpoint they deal most prominently with the provinces from Sonora to Coahuila. Texas fares well—Alta California and New Mexico, less so. In all, 150 expedientes, or portions of them, with 459 documents, were catalogued.

Among outstanding entered materials may be mentioned the following: duplicates of Croix's voluminous memorials already referred to in the description of 103–3–24; the acts of the junta de guerra held by Croix at Chihuahua in 1778, about military policies for the Provincias Internas; various expedientes about Neve's activities in Alta California in founding new settlements, and in preparing and putting into execution a new reglamento; expedientes about the progress of the settlements founded by Neve, especially San Jose and Los Angeles; the reviews of Alta California presidios; various expedientes about the founding of Spanish settlements at the junction of the Gila and Colorado rivers, the Yuma disaster of 1781, the ensuing campaigns against the Yumas, and the abandonment of the land route to Alta California; Neve's instructions to Fages, who succeeded him as governor of the Californias; the important estado catalogued as [14] As in the case of the Audiencia of Mexico, a number of documents appear to be the original, instead of the duplicate. One wonders if it were not due, in many instances, to the failure of a clerk to write a "D" on the document, since that is the only way in which these materia's differ from originals. There are not a few triplicates instead of duplicates.

number 4828; and the expediente of the successful Zúñiga expedition to discover a route between New Mexico and Sonora.

The unentered material includes numerous expedientes about Indian warfare, not only in Nueva Vizcaya and Coahuila, but also against the Apaches in Texas, the Comanches in New Mexico, and (after 1783) the Seris and Apaches of the Gila in Sonora. There is also much local material for Paso del Norte, San Antonio de Bexar, San Sabá, and other places within or near the present American boundary in New Mexico and Texas. Among other items, the following may be noted: service sheets, for several years, of all the military officials of the frontier, including governors, adjutant inspectors, captains, lieutenants, alféreces, sergeants, cadetes, and adjutant majors of militia, of which only those of men known to have had a direct connection with Alta California history were entered; reviews of presidios other than those of Alta California; twelve expedientes (in 103–4–23) about the formation of militia companies in Nueva Vizcaya, and the questions arising therefrom; and an expediente of 1795, of about six hundred pages, dealing with religious affairs in New Mexico. NPC[15]

31. Legajo 103–5–20. Correspondencia con los Gobernadores, Intendentes de Nueva Vizcaya y otras Provincias Internas. Años 1735 á 1821. This is a poorly organized legajo, with material for all of the frontier provinces, but mostly concerned with Sonora and Durango. The principal basis of the expedientes is the correspondence of the governors and intendants directly with the authorities in Spain. The legajo deals primarily with petitions for promotion, and appointments to office. Occasionally, important matter of a general nature appears relative to these appointments, as in the case of the proceedings of the junta de guerra that considered Gallardo's notable report about conditions in Sonora, in which Gallardo recommended the opening of land communication with the Californias from Sonora; this comes up in connection with the appointment of Diego Parrilla as governor of Sinaloa and Sonora. The legajo is by no means inclusive of the correspondence of the governors and intendants, only a few of whom are represented at all. Thirty-one items were entered. There is considerable material about Indian affairs in Durango which is perhaps the most noteworthy of the uncatalogued documents.

[15] One expediente in 103–5–3, based on Croix's letter number 939 (not catalogued), bore the marks placed on a file when it is removed (usually for copying) from a legajo.

Two similar legajos, not examined for cataloguing, are 103–5–19, described as containing the correspondence of the governors and intendants of Nuevo León, New Mexico, and Nuevo Santander from 1730 to 1821, and 103–5–21, similarly for Coahuila, Durango, and Texas from 1738 to 1821. NPC

32. Legajo 103–5–25. Correspondencia con los Presidentes de la Audiencia. Años 1734 á 1805. Like the legajo just described, this, too, in no sense approaches completeness within the terms of its description. There are letters of the presidents of the Audiencia of Guadalajara between the years named, with also some letters of prior and some of later date, but presumably the correspondence in the legajo is a very small fraction of the entire amount for the period covered, most of the years containing none whatever. An interesting feature of the legajo is the light it throws on the acquisition of the presidency of the Audiencia, since petitions for that post and appointments to it form a large part of the material in the legajo. The office was purchasable, the usual price being 24,000 pesos fuertes for a term of eight years. The possessor might fill the post himself, name somebody else to serve in his place, or even bequeath his title to an heir. Not only were single terms sold, but also the reversion after the expiration of a first or even a second term. There is also much material of a more general character for affairs within the area of the Audiencia's jurisdiction. The only entered material was an expediente of thirteen documents for the years 1740 to 1744, dealing with the activities of the Marqués de Aysa to protect the west coast against the English expedition of Anson and any other English ships which might appear. NPC

33. Legajo 103–6–19. Espediente sobre cuentas de las rentas del Hospital Real de San Cosme y S.Damian de Durango. Años 1771. The title is a sufficient indication of the contents of the legajo. Nothing was entered. NPC

34. Legajo 103–6–21. Espediente sobre el establecimiento de la poblacion del Carrizal y del Presidio de la Junta de los rios del norte y concho. Años 1759 á 1760. This contains only the two testimonios catalogued at numbers 454 and 455, aggregating over nine hundred pages and dealing with the question of protecting the Nueva Vizcaya frontier from the raids of the Indians of Texas, through the founding of a presidio on the Río Grande. NPC

35. Legajos 103–6–23 to 31 and 103–7–1 to 12. Cartas y espedientes.

These twenty-one legajos, dating from 1744 to 1785, are in a series containing seventeen more, which carry the inclusive dates to 1800. Legajo 103–6–23 embraces the years 1744 to 1760, but the majority of the others are for a single year. The material in 103–6–23, most of which was entered, is in disorder, indicating a probability of its having been used, although there were no copy marks. Legajo 103–7–11 seems also to have been used, for it is in wild disorder, although lacking removal marks, but the material which bears no observable relation to the numbered expedientes, constituting three-fourths of the legajo, may once have formed one expediente, for it relates to a single idea. The other legajos retain the original good order of their filing. The materials are in groups of years, with a series of numbered expedientes in each year, very few of the serial numbers of which are missing. The last bundle in each year's list is composed of brief expedientes of but one or a few documents each, upon which no action by the authorities in Spain was necessary. The documents were merely read, therefore, and filed. These papers are called Cartas de visto, of which there are about thirty in each annual group of this set. Most of them are acknowledgments of the receipt of royal orders, or announcements of installation in office. Counting each year's Cartas de visto bundle as one expediente, there are 261 expedientes in twenty of the legajos investigated, excluding 103–6–23. Fifteen expedientes were catalogued, together with some of the material in four of the Cartas de visto bundles, yielding fifty-seven items, or a total of eighty-two with the twenty-five of 103–6–23. These include New Mexico and Texas items.

While less narrowly personal than the papers of the Espedientes diarios (discussed in the next following section), those of this set are also of an administrative character, of matters that came up in the ordinary course of business, somewhat general in subject matter at times, though locally applied. Much of a judicial character and, especially in the later legajos, much pertaining to the church, more particularly the secular arm, appear. The expedientes for the year 1760 are illustrative of the whole set. They treat of the following subjects: salaries of alcaldes mayores; the decision that corregidores, alcaldes, and justices should reside in the principal town of their district; a request for an explanation of a decree with reference to matrimony; the inability of Indian widows to pay tribute; the sale of certain offices; the collection of certain sums from the cathedral of Guadalajara; the need of a greater population in Coahuila; the visit of the bishop in Nuevo León and Texas; the question whether the oficiales reales of Durango, Guadalajara, or Mexico should handle the papers dealing with the taking possession of office by officials in New Mexico; about a settlement north of the mouth of the Río Grande without any pastor; and Cartas de visto. Occasionally, material of some importance is to be found in the legajos. The following items show this: measures taken as a result of the appearance of Dutch ships off the Pacific coast of New Spain, and as a result of the capture of Frenchmen in New Mexico and Texas, both in 103–6–23; and the 116-page summary for the Council of the Indies of the expediente in which the most noteworthy document was the Lizazóin memorial about conditions in Sonora and problems of northwestward advance, in 103–6–25 (mentioned in item 560 of the Catalogue).

Several items of interest were not entered, some of which would usually have been regarded as within the plan of the Catalogue. The items follow: a voluminous expediente arising from a lawsuit in connection with pearl fishing in the Gulf of California, the only uncatalogued material of 103–6–23; an expediente about the establishment of the alcabala in Culiacán, Ostimuri, Real del Rosario, and Sonora, in 103–6–25; two expedientes about the Frenchman Pedro Molina, who was married to a woman of Guadalajara and was interested in mining, but was living at Guadalajara without the permit required in the case of a foreigner, in 103–6–30 and 103–6–31; the project of a citizen of Guadalajara for the establishment of eight royal banks in the two Americas, for the benefit of miners, and an expediente about the division of the Californias between the Franciscans and Dominicans, both in 103–7–1; an expediente about reducing the price of quicksilver at Bolaños, so as to assist in developing mineral wealth there, in 103–7–2; two expedientes about secularizing certain Franciscan missions in Nueva Galicia, in 103–7–3 and 103–7–11; and several expedientes of the year 1777 concerning the difficulties arising between the viceroyalty and the comandancia general of the Provincias Internas, as a result of the establishment of the latter, in 103–7–5. NPC

36. Legajos 104–1–6 to 14. Espedientes diarios. Años 1760 á 1799. This is another well-ordered set of legajos, the material being arranged in packages covering a single year, within which the expedientes have a consecutive numbering. The documents are usually of a minor administrative character, almost wholly concerned with the petitions of individuals about matters of personal interest to them. Petitions to be allowed to go to the Indies, or to carry certain relatives and servants there, petitions for a right to marry, requests for office or for promotion, claims for sums of money, requests for confirmations in office or in social standing—it is of such material that the legajos are made up. Aside from their institutional possibilities, the documents are occasionally of value because they deal with some official in whom the investigator has an interest or because they refer incidentally, in supporting the petition in question, to events that are within the scope of an investigation. In the case of the Catalogue, seventeen expedientes (of which fourteen come in 104–1–6 and 7), yielding forty-nine items, were entered, out of a total of 422 expedientes. Two of the entered expedientes, one dealing with the establishment of the Dominicans in Baja California, and the other giving complete and detailed information as to the expense of the Department of San Blas and the Californias from 1768 to 1774, proved to be material of importance for the Catalogue—serving as illustrations of the way in which valuable items are occasionally buried in unpromising legajos.

At a period of more liberal interpretation of the rules for entry, the following expedientes might also have been catalogued: 104–1–7, 1769, no. 1—petition for permission to fill vacancies at the College of San Fernando, Mexico, caused by the sending of missionaries to the Californias; 104–1–7, 1769, no. 2—petition for permission to fill vacancies at the College of Santa Cruz, Querétaro, caused by the sending of missionaries to Sinaloa and Sonora; 104–1–7, 1770, no. 2—petition of Thomas Prieto to go to the Indies to serve as a missionary in the Californias, the petition being denied on the ground that Prieto was over fifty years old;[16] 104–1–10, 1780, no. 5—grant of the rank of city to Arispe, Sonora, because it was to be the capital of the Provincias Internas and the seat of a bishopric; 104–1–10, 1782, no. 8—petition of Francisco Sánchez Zúñiga, a Queretaran friar who had spent ten years as a missionary in Pimería Alta, to be allowed to return to Spain; 104–1–14, 1799, nos. 3 to 6—petitions of five Dominicans, who had served twenty years in Baja California, to be made masters in their order; 104–1–14, 1799, no. 10—petition of a Dominican, who had served in Baja California, to be made predicador general of his order.

NPC

[16] This is the only petition in the set of an individual wishing to go to the Californias. It may also be worthy of note that the other matters of the legajo (appointments, etc.) do not relate directly to the Californias.

37. Legajo 104–2–13. Espedientes e ynstancias de partes. Años 1766 á 1777. This is one of a set of twelve which cover the years 1732 to 1826. The material is concerned with the petitions of individuals for office, more pay, promotion, financial assistance, and, in the case of widows, for pensions. Except for a few petitions by members of the clergy, the individuals concerned were civil officials already in government employ. Little of value appeared, but eight items were entered. NPC

38. Legajo 104–2–25. Duplicados de sugetos particulares del distrito de aquella Audiencia. Años 1707 á 1809. Another legajo with the same title is for the years 1653 to 1706. The title of 104–2–25 does not fit the material exactly, for there are a number of expedientes which are general in nature and of more than ordinary value, some documents which are not duplicates, and some dated as late as 1816. Most of the papers, however, do relate to matters concerning individuals, and are duplicates, within the dates given. The greater part of the legajo treats of ecclesiastical affairs. The nature of the materials is well illustrated by the following items, which were regarded as just too remote for entry: an expediente of 175 pages about an uprising, in 1720, of the eleven Indian pueblos of the Río del Norte (Río Grande); various expedientes about affairs in Nueva Vizcaya during the rule of Governor Belaunzarán, notably a seventeen-page letter of 1740 by the governor himself; a letter of the Marqués de Torre Campo, in 1747, relating his achievements as governor of Nueva Vizcaya, and discussing the state of affairs there; a gossipy letter of the Bishop of Guadalajara, March 13, 1746, in response to a request from the authorities in Spain, describing the various officials of Guadalajara, including Echeverz, president of the Audiencia, and the Marqués de Aysa, a past and future president; and an expediente of 150 pages, dated 1796, concerning the residencia of Pedro Tueros, governor of Coahuila. A curious item is the poetic effusion of the Marqués de Torre Campo on the accession of Ferdinand VI. Twenty-seven items were entered, including an important expediente of 1809 about the governmental restrictions on immigration into Coahuila and Texas. NPC

39. Legajo 104–3–1. Espediente sobre la historia de la conquista de la Nueva Galicia escrito por el Licdo.D. Matias de la Mota. Años 1760. This tiny legajo of fifty pages is concerned with the petition of Mota Padilla for the publication of his book, this much being granted, and for certain official positions in Guadalajara that he desired. Nothing was entered.[17] NPC

40. Legajo 104–3–2. Espediente de la espedicion hecha a la Sonora por D. Jose de Galvez y donativos que para ello se hicieron. Años 1766 á 1773. From the standpoint of the objects of the Catalogue, this was one of the richest of the legajos. It was in such admirably good order that it can hardly have been used before the writer came upon it. The entire legajo was entered, yielding 340 items. The title of the legajo is not adequate to describe the material it contains. The documents show that José de Gálvez and the Marqués de Croix formed a plan, which was later carried on by Bucarely, for the development and advance of the northern frontier of New Spain, not only in Sonora, but also along the whole line, from the Californias to Texas. The central idea was the suppression of the rebellious Indians of Sonora and an advance to the Gila and Colorado rivers. As a preliminary, however, Alta California was to be occupied, Baja California made prosperous, or, at least, freed from existing evils that retarded its development, and the military leaders of Nueva Vizcaya, Coahuila, and Texas were to hold the hostile Indians in check, until the Spanish troops from Sonora might come by way of the Gila to settle the issue in the east. The legajo treats adequately of the workings of the plan, and is fullest for the regions to which Gálvez gave his principal attention, the two Californias and Sonora, and for the years 1768 and 1769 when he personally was on the scene. Except for papers stated to have been filed elsewhere, concerning Russian aggressions, and for certain of Gálvez's reports about the Alta California expeditions of 1769, the legajo provides an almost complete survey of Gálvez's activities in Baja California and Sonora until he was taken sick in 1769, and furnishes numerous documents about the heretofore little known story of the Sonora war. The great majority of the documents are copies of the reports and enclosures of Gálvez, Domingo Elizondo, and others to the viceroy, forwarded by him to Julián de Arriaga, the ministro general in Spain. NPC[18]

41. Legajo 104–3–3. Espedicion hecha por tierra á Monterrey en California. Años 1768 á 1772. Like 104–3–2, this also was a valuable legajo, giving seventy-six items, the entire legajo, for the Catalogue.

[17] The Mota Padilla work seems not to have been published for over a century, when it appeared under the following title: Historia de la conquista de la provincia de la Nueva-Galicia, Mexico, 1870 [1871–1872].

[18] Much of this material has since been procured for the Bancroft Library.

It did not have the completeness as to the subject matter treated that 104–3–2 had, but it furnished abundant materials concerning the Alta California expeditions of 1769, after their arrival at San Diego. Thus, the march up the peninsula is inadequately referred to, but the two marches to Monterey and the occupation of that port in 1770 are abundantly documented. There is also much material about the preliminaries of both the sea and land expeditions and concerning the Indian wars in Sonora, including the voluminous account of Beleña, catalogued at number 1940. The legajo had been much used, although still in good order, and, except for the Beleña report, there was hardly a document that had not been copied.[19]

42. Legajos 104–3–4 and 5. Espediente sobre la sublevacion de los Yndios de la Pimeria alta y sus incidencias. Años 1775. All of the material in these valuable legajos, 155 items in all, was catalogued. The revolt discussed is not of the year 1775, but the Pima revolt of 1751 and its important consequences. To this subject are devoted half of 104–3–4 and all of 104–3–5. The documents are principally testimonios of the year 1754, some of them the result of Jesuit efforts to exculpate themselves from blame for the uprising, but most of them resulting from the enquiries of their opponent, Governor Diego Parrilla. There are other documents on this subject between 1751 and 1759. The whole number furnish ample opportunity for the study, not only of the Pima revolt, but also of the affairs of Sonora and frontier conditions in general. The Spanish projects of advance by way of the Gila and Colorado rivers are prominently to the fore as well, as in the voluminous Balthasar and Gallardo memorials of 1753 and 1758.

Half of 104–3–4 is devoted to Dominican petitions for a missionary field, in particular, in the Californias. The documents are for the years 1760 to 1775, and include much important material other than that of the Dominican efforts. There are statistical accounts of the Baja California missions in 1768 and in 1773, the valuable Gálvez memorial of 1773 about the division of the Californias between the Franciscans of San Fernando and the Dominicans, various reports of the fiscales of the Council of the Indies and resolutions on the Dominican petitions, and especially the important plan of the Council of March 6, 1775, material also about the Anza expedition of 1774, and, in general, a great deal bearing upon the region of the Gila and Colorado and upon the Californias.

Some of the Dominican material had been copied, but most of 104–3–4 and all of 104–3–5 were free from marks indicating removal for copy.

43. Legajo 104–3–9. Consultas, Materias, e Ynformes de Real Hacienda. Años 1596 á 1805. Only one document of this legajo, the item catalogued as 410, was entered, and this seems to have slipped into the legajo by mistake. Nevertheless, the materials are extremely important for matters of finance in Spanish colonial administration. The papers are mostly concerned with the affairs of the Real Caja of Guadalajara, but there are occasional references to other cajas reales within the jurisdiction of the Audiencia of Guadalajara. Most of the documents are summary accounts, and not mere masses of figures, of the recommendations of the Contaduría General and Council of the Indies. One of the most remarkable documents of the legajo is a testimonio of 1765, forwarded to Spain with a letter of August 3, 1765, by the oficiales reales of the Real Caja of Guadalajara, of which the title reads as follows: Testimonio de varias Certificaciones, y diligencias pertenecientes á la Comprobacion de el Cargo, y Data . . . de la Real Hazienda, y Caxa de esta Ciudad de Guadalaxara de veinte años á esta parte. The document is a certified copy, 116 pages long. It was written to demonstrate how much more successful the writers had been in gathering revenues, in the ten-year period from 1753 to 1762, than their predecessors had been in an equal length of time, from 1743 to 1752. Not only did they prove their case, but their figures for the entire twenty years show annual remissions to Mexico, representing an excess of receipts over disbursements of between 80 and 90 per cent of the amounts collected by them. Figures are also present for the receipts of each year, indicating the different sources of revenue and the amounts they produced. This valuable document is supplemented by material in 104–3–21 (presently to be described).[20] NPC

44. Legajo 104–3–10. Provisiones de Empleos de Real Hacienda. Años 1764 á 1795. A second legajo with this title dates from 1796 to 1808. This legajo deals with the appointments and promotions of oficiales reales of the more important cajas reales within the juris-

[20] The materials of 104–3–9 and 104–3–21, covering the years 1742 to 1781, were used in Chapman, The founding of Spanish California, pp. 52, 53, 455, 456, and Appendix II, between pp. 456 and 457.

diction of the Audiencia of Guadalajara. Eleven items were entered. NPC

45. Legajo 104–3–18. Oficiales Reales y sus dependencias. Años 1768 á 1791. This is the second of four legajos, the whole series dating from 1743 to 1811, and referring to the operation of the Real Caja of Guadalajara. While but three inconsequential items were entered, the legajo has some importance for matters of real hacienda. It covers a wide range in subject matter, the following being some of the topics that appear: projects for increasing revenue; methods of administration; letters enclosing accounts for a given period, and stating results; occasional cortes, tanteos, and estados[21] which happened not to be removed to their proper file; indices of the letters of the oficiales reales; and matters concerning individuals, such as questions of salary, appointments to office, and requests for permission to marry. NPC

46. Legajo 104–3–21. Estados, Cortes y Tanteos de Guadalajara. Años 1761 á 1781. This is one of two legajos, the second carrying the inclusive dates to 1807. The receipts and disbursements of the Real Caja of Guadalajara are covered with completeness for the years named. The cortes and tanteos give the cargo y data, or receipts and disbursements, in detail for the whole of each year. Each of these documents fills about fifty pages. They are summed up in an estado, an exceedingly neat piece of work on a single sheet,[22] although this document is missing for the earlier years of the legajo. As already mentioned, this legajo and 104–3–9 furnish a fairly complete history of the financial operations of the Real Caja of Guadalajara from 1743 to 1781, but this is the better legajo, not only because of the estados, but also because disbursements are itemized. Despite the great value of the legajo, only five items mentioning remissions of funds to San Blas were entered. NPC

47. Legajos 104–3–23 to 25. Cuentas de Real Hacienda de Guadalajara. These three legajos, for the years 1761 to 1776, form part of a set of eight, of which the last five range from 1777 to 1788. Except for three Pliegos de Sumario[23] for 1742, 1764, and 1765, the materials of 104–3–23 consist of five books, one for each year from 1761 to 1765, like those elsewhere styled Libros Manuales. In later years the

Relación Jurada, Pliego de Sumario, and Resultas y Reparos are present, indicating a change in the methods of accounting. The materials are important, since the figures are for the wide-sweeping jurisdiction of the Real Caja of Guadalajara, and bear upon the economic development, and therefore upon the Spanish advance, in the frontier provinces. Among materials of a special character is the item catalogued as number 1837, summarizing receipts, disbursements, and remissions to Mexico for each year from 1762 to 1771. The three legajos were catalogued in entirety, yielding thirty-six items. NPC

48. Legajo 104–4–28. Cuentas de Real Hacienda del Rosario y Alamos. Años 1772 á 1781. A second legajo is for 1782 to 1786. Legajo 104–4–28 is wholly concerned with Álamos. In each year there are four classes of documents, the Pliego de Sumario, Resultas y Reparos (called Resultas y Reflexas here), Relación Jurada,[24] and Cuenta de Cargo y Data, the last-named providing separate accounts of each branch of real hacienda. These papers are of value for the Spanish northwestward advance, as they indicate the economic progress, especially of the mining districts, on which such an advance was based. All of the fifty-two items of 104–4–28 were entered. NPC

49. Legajo 104–5–10. Cuentas de Real Hacienda de las Provincias Ynternas. Años 1779 á 1782. The legajo is not well described, for it deals only with the expenses of the militia companies maintained in Nueva Vizcaya. Nothing was entered. NPC

50. Legajos 104–5–11 to 15. Cuentas de Real Hacienda de S. Blas de California. Años 1774 á 1794. These legajos contain the financial operations of the Department of San Blas in its important relation to the Californias. While the materials vary in some measure in the different legajos, there are six principal types of documents found. The Relación Jurada, or sworn statement of receipts and disbursements, made up at the end of each year by the commissary of San Blas and his assistants, provides an itemized account of the kinds of goods sent to the Californias, together with the amounts and prices, dates of shipment, ships upon which they were loaded, etc. The Pliego de Sumario is a summary of the Relación Jurada. The Resultas y Reparos, also called Pliegos de Consistencia, Autos de Consistencia y Reparos, and yet other names, contains a detailed comment on the various items of the Relación Jurada, averaging from ten to twenty times that document in length. The two last-described documents were made up by the Real Tribunal de Cuentas of Mexico; they tend in great measure to clear up the meaning of the masses of figures appearing in the Relación Jurada. Beginning with 1786, the last year of 104–5–11, the documents consist principally of three leather-bound volumes. The Libro Manual is a journal, or day book, in which items, whether debit or credit, are entered consecutively under each day, with the same sort of comment as that of the Relación Jurada. The Libro Mayor is a ledger, and the Libro de Caja, or Libro de Tesorero, is a cash book. In these later years, the first three documents described are missing, except the Resultas y Reparos and that is briefer than before. The later materials are therefore more difficult of use by an investigator.

For the minute details of the Spanish settlements in Alta California, these legajos are extremely important, since that colony was almost wholly dependent on San Blas. These documents not only show everything that was shipped to Alta California, but also furnish much incidental data, such as the names of ships and their officers and the dates of sailing. In legajo 104–5–11 there were a few documents of a financial character other than those described above, all of which referred to Alta California. Every document of the five legajos, 103 in all, was entered. NPC

51. Legajo 104–5–16. Cuentas de Real Hacda.de S. Carlos de Perote en California. Años 1773 á 1789. Two other legajos in this set carry the dates to 1803. Legajo 104–5–16 is complete only for the years 1773, 1774, and 1786 to 1789, although a few documents of 1779 to 1782 appear. The documents are the same as those described in Section 50. Since the fort of San Carlos de Perote was in the vicinity of Vera Cruz, it would seem that the legajo is wrongly entitled. Nevertheless, the twenty items of the legajo were entered, three, at least, with justification, since they referred to the accounts of the presidio of Loreto in Baja California. NPC

52. Legajo 104–5–19. Espedientes de Real Hacienda en general. Años 1764 á 1791. This is the first of a set of five legajos running to the year 1819. The materials were a distinct surprise, in that they did not consist of account books and lists of figures, but were rather in the nature of projects of real hacienda. They are principally for the years 1786 to 1791, and deal, for the most part, with the Department of San Blas, and with plans for instituting trade between the Philippines and Alta California. Two expedientes appear in which suggestions were made, between 1786 and 1790, for developing the fur trade of Alta California and the northwest coast. One of them involved also the development of Alta California's mineral wealth; furs were to be exchanged for quicksilver, which was to be procured in China and sent, by way of the Philippines, to San Francisco. The legajo yielded thirty-eight items for the Catalogue. NPC

53. Legajo 104–5–24. Espedientes é instancias de partes. Años 1777 á 1789. A second legajo is for 1790 and 1791. Although 104–5–24 has the same title as the already described 104–2–13, which it resembles in kind, it proved unexpectedly rich in materials for the Department of San Blas, the greater part of the legajo relating to that department. Most of the documents have the usual de partes character of referring to individuals, such as the remissions of sums by officials of San Blas to their families in Spain, or promotions of officials, or, in the present instance, charges against them on the ground of their operating a gambling establishment, but there are some expedientes of a general character; most important of these is an expediente of 1777 about a proposal to move the Department of San Blas to Matanchel or Chacala. Among material not entered was an expediente of 1788, about two hundred pages long, concerning the causes of the economic decline in the province of Durango. Fifty-five items were entered. NPC

54. Legajo 104–6–7. Expediente sobre la imposicion y cobro de tributos en la Provincia de Sonora y otras. Años 1776. This legajo in fact deals almost wholly with the collection of the royal tributes from the Indians of Sinaloa, rather than from those of Sonora. Four documents were entered because of their reference to general laws applying the tributes in all parts of New Spain. NPC

55. Legajo 104–6–8. Patentes y Nombramtos.militares. Años 1699 á 1804. This is both a very important and an exceedingly well-ordered legajo, covering appointments to military positions in the frontier provinces for the years given above. The material is arranged in separate folders by presidios or posts, with a statement of the inclusive dates of the appointments. The file is fairly complete, one officer usually succeeding a predecessor whose prior appointment appears in the legajo.[25] The appointments are for commanders of the particular post, although a few officials of lower grade appear. Entry was made of 353 items according to the scheme of the Catalogue. The list itself of the military posts, with the inclusive dates of appointments, is a matter of importance, and it is therefore inserted below, just as it appeared on the covers of the various folders. Those marked with a double asterisk were entered in entirety; those with a single asterisk, to 1781; the others were not entered at all. Where the inclusive dates are inaccurate, they are corrected, in brackets, before or after the given dates, as the case may be.

[25] The legajo appears to have been in the file of the Contaduría General; the appointments are copies of the duplicate forwarded to it, the remitting letters to it are originals, and the Contaduría replies are drafts.

56. Legajo 104–6–9. Asuntos de Guerra. Años 1752 á 1769. The title of this legajo comes from a thirty-two page expediente of four documents for the year 1769, dealing with the Sonora campaign. This was the only material catalogued. The principal content of the legajo is a number of testimonios, five of them bulking large, stated as having been found (presumably by those who made up the legajo) without the letters with which originally they were enclosed. They are papers in certain lawsuits, and are asuntos de guerra only in that military men were the judges. NPC

57. Legajo 104–6–12. Fortificaciones, Pertrechos de Guerra, Situados de tropa y sus Yncidencias. Años 1763 á 1787. This is a small legajo, mainly composed of expedientes arising from the petitions of military men for promotion. There are a few documents also about the movement of troops. Nothing was entered. NPC

58. Legajos 104–6–13 to 23. Fortificaciones, Pertrechos de Guerra, Situados de Tropa y Provisiones de Empleos de las Provincias Ynternas. Años 1760 á 1832. After an investigation of the similarly-named sets already described in sections 16 and 57 had revealed little of value for the Catalogue, not much was expected of this series of eleven legajos. The surprise and exhilarating joy experienced by the writer and in the technical value of the papers, this set ranks with the best in the archive. The papers seem never to have been used since they were filed, a century before, for the expediente groups within the legajos were like so many pieces of wood in their unbending and resonant solidity.[26] After being worked over for a few seconds they miraculously became folds of paper, and the legajos, by actual measurement, were over an inch higher when packed down and tied up again than they were when the papers were first opened. Nearly all of the documents are the originals of the viceroys, comandantes generales, and some others to the ministro general in Spain, enclosing certified copies, with drafts of the replies of the ministros generales.

Unfortunately, this set was discovered by the writer near the end of his stay in Seville, when both time and funds were running out. It was therefore catalogued on the basis of its relation to the history of Alta California and the approaches thereto, and then a second campaign of listing began, with the object of entering all items not included the first time. In this way legajos 104–6–13 to 17 were catalogued in entirety. The number of items entered in each legajo, with their total of 2327 documents, is shown in the accompanying chart.

104–6–13	220 items	104–6–19	109 items
104–6–14	392 "	104–6–20	70 "
104–6–15	286 "	104–6–21	37 "
104–6–16	340 "	104–6–22	181 "
104–6–17	421 "	104–6–23	27 "
104–6–18	244 "
		Total	2327 items

The omissions may in a measure be made good by a reference here to outstanding items, but they are in any event of less consequence than might have been expected, since 104–6–18 and 19 are predominantly Alta Californian, and therefore most of the documents in them were catalogued, while 104–6–21 and 23 are of little value, and 104–6–20 and 22 are less strikingly important than the first seven legajos of the set.

[26] Señor Torres Lanzas had previously looked through the legajos for some of the maps which appeared in his Relación descriptiva de los mapas, planos, & [!], de México y Floridas, existentes en el Archivo General de Indias, 2 vols., Sevilla, 1900; but he merely glanced at the edges of the expedientes, and, if he saw no map (for they are usually discernible), did not open the file. Both he and the late Señor Verger expressed their belief that nobody else had used this set—but the condition of the expedientes is proof enough in itself that none of them had been opened except the few examined by Señor Torres Lanzas. Shepherd sensed their value, for he mentions the set. Shepherd, Guide, p. 67.

Much of the materials in the unentered expedientes has already been indicated in the general description of the contents of the set. The following are some of the more noteworthy expedientes that were not catalogued: a considerable expediente about the visit of Governor Anza of New Mexico to the land of the Moquis, whom he found in a state of great misery (104–6–19); an expediente of about a thousand pages concerning the removal of Captain Rafael Martínez Pacheco from the command at Babia, Coahuila (104–6–20); an expediente containing the reviews of Texas presidios in 1782 (104–6–20); and two expedientes, composing half a legajo, concerning the militia of Parras (104–6–21). NPC[27]

59. Legajo 104–6–24. Espedientes sobre instalación, Trastacion [Traslación] y Reglamento de Presidios Ynternos. Años 1779 á 1782. The twenty-one items of this valuable legajo were all entered. While most of the documents appear in other legajos, the general idea conveyed in the above title is nowhere so well represented as here. All of the documents are for the years 1779 and 1780, except the printed instructions of 1771 and 1772 for a line of frontier presidios and a Gálvez letter of 1782. Worthy of special note is a bulky summary (noted in the Catalogue at item number 4082, paragraph three) covering not only Croix's letters catalogued as 4082, 4149, and 4150, which are in the legajo, but also his letters numbered 396 and 450 (both absent and not catalogued) and another, which is in a different legajo, entered as 4151. NPC

60. Legajo 104–7–6. Espedientes del Comercio de San Blas de California con Panamá. Años 1789 á 1818. The whole legajo forms a single expediente, which is subdivided into twenty-three subordinate expedientes. The principal idea involved is that of the continual complaints of the merchants of Vera Cruz against the grant to Panamá of a right to trade freely with neighboring colonies, and, among other places, with the port of San Blas. Only those expedientes bearing upon the commerce of San Blas were entered, but that port is dealt with in all of them, except part one of number 2, and numbers 14 to 16, 18 to 21, and 23. The number of items entered was 104. The uncatalogued expedientes treat of the following matters: the commercial relations of Vera Cruz with Havana, Tampico, and Campeche; the complaints of the casa de moneda of Mexico, because silver was not being brought there for coining; and appointments to the new customshouse at Tampico, and the regulations concerning it. Much of this type of material appears also in some of the entered items of the expedientes catalogued. Most of the documents are for the period of the Spanish American revolutions, which, in the case of San Blas, made communication with Panamá a necessity, since it was not possible with Vera Cruz. NPC

61. Legajo 104-7-8. Eclesiastico. Consultas, Decretos y Provisiones eclesiasticas. Años 1797 á 1807. This is the middle of three legajos so entitled, the inclusive dates of the set being 1700 to 1821. The dates of this legajo are not accurate, as there are a number of expedientes for the years preceding 1797, especially from 1786 to 1796. Most of the documents concern ecclesiastical appointments, such as to the office of canon, dean, or treasurer of a cathedral, but there are many that are more general in character, all dealing with the secular branch of the clergy, except where the regulars were serving as priests and were subject, in a measure, to a bishop. None of the documents bear specifically on regions now within the United States, and no entries, therefore, were made, but much of the material came near to a right of entry. The following of this type may be noted: an expediente of about three hundred pages concerning the erection of the bishopric of Nuevo León, involving also the province of Nuevo Santander, with documents for the years 1774 to 1797; and several expedientes on the question whether soldiers of the Provincias Internas ought to pay tithes. NPC

62. Legajo 104-7-33. Eclesiastico. Espedte.sobre ereccion del obispado de Sonora y su establecimiento. Años 1776 á 1787. This legajo bears the marks of usage, though not of copying, in that it is in utter disorder. Originally, the documents formed a single expediente and they have been brought together in cataloguing, though not as they must once have been filed. They deal, not only with the erection of the bishopric of Sonora, but also with the establishment of the custodias of San Gabriel (Alta California), Sonora, Nueva Vizcaya, and New Mexico. The plans for these institutions take up most of the legajo, while the later material deals almost wholly with Sonora and its northernmost district, Pimería Alta. By far the greater number of the documents serve to illustrate the machinery involved in the execution of these projects, from their proposal by Antonio de los Reyes, the later bishop, to their authorization by the pope and enactment into law. The Reyes plan (3317), the Revilla Gigedo history of the custodias (5436), and the Barbastro statistical account of the custodia of San Carlos, or Sonora (5493), are perhaps the principal items of the legajo. All but a few of the documents were entered, yielding 117 items. NPC

63. Legajo 105–1–24. Eclesiastico. Ereccion y Estatuto para los Misioneros en las Provincias Ynternas. Años 1774. This covers the same subject matter as 104–7–33, part of the material of which it duplicates, but it is almost wholly concerned with the erection of the four custodias. The documents of 104–7–33 seem to have been the file of the ministro general, while those of 105–1–24 were probably that of the Council of the Indies. This legajo is in good order, and omits many of the purely routine documents that appear in 104–7–33. It is wrongly dated, for there are materials of other years than 1774; in fact, perhaps the greater part of the legajo is for 1779 to 1782. While most of the legajo is an outgrowth of the Reyes plans for custodias, there is one expediente for 1796 and 1797, about Indian affairs in Nueva Vizcaya, that is somewhat remote from the principal idea of the legajo. This expediente was not entered, leaving a total of sixty items that were catalogued. NPC

64. Legajo 105–1–25. Eclesiastico. Espedientes de Misiones. Años 1768 á 1819. The dates given are misleading, since the legajo is almost wholly for the years 1788 to 1810. It contains much useful material for the two Californias, to which more than half of the legajo is devoted, in fairly equal amounts for each of the two provinces. Fourteen expedientes, containing seventy-eight items, were entered. The following are some of the matters taken up: an expediente of over three hundred pages, dated 1768 to 1797, about the grant of missions in Baja California to the Dominicans; various expedientes about the sending of Dominican missionaries from Spain, involving the question how much the government should allow them for expenses; two expedientes, 1788 to 1792, about the mutual complaints of the governor and the president of the missions in Alta California; and an expediente of 1789, concerning the steps taken for founding new missions in the two Californias. * There is some confusion as to the correct date of items 1940a, 1980a, and 1980b. The documents seen by the writer seem to have been for the year 1774, a matter which was recently verified by Mr. Reginald S. Castleman; it will also be noticed that the year 1774 is used in the description of items 1980a and 1980b. According to Bolton, Guide, 71, and Documentos para la historia de México, (México. 1853–1857. 20v.) 3d ser., pt. IV, 724–765, the dates should be 1772.

Many difficulties are encountered in making an index of Spanish names. The same man will frequently sign by his title (if he has one), at other times by his father's name, at others by his mother's, and at all times is likely to vary the spelling of the name he employs. This comes about for the following reasons. In Spanish there are many names ("García," "López," "Martínez," "Pérez," "Sánchez," and numerous others) which are regarded about as "Smith" is in English. Furthermore, Spaniards retain their mothers' names, writing them after the family name of the father. Men whose fathers' names are of the common variety will often omit them. In spelling, the letters "b" and "v," "i" and "y," "j" and "x," and "c," "z," and "s" were employed, formerly, almost interchangeably, and this fact should be borne in mind in using the index.

Names are entered here, so far as it was possible to determine them, by title or by the family name of the father, with the addition of that of the mother if it appears. In the case of well-known men who have habitually been referred to in historical works under the names of their mothers (eg. "Diego Ortiz Parrilla," invariably written "Parrilla"), a cross-reference is made from the mother's name. All variants in spelling have not been entered, but enough have been included so that there should be little difficulty in finding the name desired. The spelling usually employed by the man himself in documents signed by him with his name and rubric (originals) has been followed here in family names, but modern form has been used in Christian names. Accents appear where present-day usage would require them. These practices vary slightly from the Catalogue, in which the exact form, in all details, is retained. Little attempt has been made to interpret place names. Thus, if "Californias" is employed, that is the word indexed, even if "Alta California" was certainly in the writer's mind. On the other hand (e. g. under "Northwest coast"), entry is often made of the region referred to when the name of the place is not mentioned. Names of correspondents and all names in the descriptive paragraph are entered, omitting place names where a document was signed or certified. Some indications of institutional material are also given (eg. "Church," "Indians," "Religious conquest," "Real hacienda"). Attention is directed to the system of cross-referencing in the third paragraph of each item. This will take one to many documents other than those indicated by the page references here. The student will also find it helpful to consult the lists of viceroys, archbishops, bishops, and governors appearing in Bolton's Guide (cited at p. 1, n. 2) pp. 469–479.

Names are indexed by page, and not by item.
